Tokio Premier Announces Plan for 'Independence'

REDS TARGET

Nipponese to Demand Entry Into Anti-Communist Pact

Tokio—(U)—Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye declared today Japan was prepared to help China abolish the foreign concessions and extra-territoriality, the system of special privileges enjoyed by some foreigners in China for nearly a century.

In a formal statement on the future of Japanese-Chinese relations the premier concluded:

"Japan not only respects the sovereignty of China but is prepared to give positive consideration to the question of the abolition of extra-territoriality and of concessions and settlements, matters which are necessary for the full independence of China."

By China the premier manifestly referred to the state Japan already has announced she expects to emerge from her current conquests, linked in a strong political, economic and cultural bloc with Japan and her protectorate, Manchoukuo.

Such a state, under Japanese direction, is expected by Japanese leaders to replace the Chinese government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, which now has its capital at Chungking.

Action at Conference

Konoye's statement was believed to embody decisions reached in November by the imperial conference, super-government organ for prosecution of the China war, meeting in the presence of Emperor Hirohito.

(The United States has no concessions in China, but American citizens participate in administration of the International Settlement of Shanghai and Americans enjoy extra-territoriality, the right to be tried in their own courts if they run afoul of Chinese courts.)

Konoye's statement coincided with a strong press campaign for abolition of foreign concessions, including even the retrocession of Britain's colony of Hong Kong to the China of the "new order" of Japan's plans.

The statement reiterated the government announcement of Nov. 3 that Japan proposed to form a Japan-China-Manchoukuo bloc "for common defense against communism and for economic cooperation."

Wars on Communists

He said that "Japan frankly desires that China shall enter into complete diplomatic relations with Manchoukuo of her own free will" and also that Japan demands that China enter into the anti-communist pact of Japan, Germany and Italy.

(Manchoukuo, formed out of Chinese provinces conquered by the Japanese army in 1931-33, already has announced gradual abolition of foreigners' special status.)

(The principal foreign concessions in China, besides the Shanghai settlement, are the French concession of Shanghai, the British, French and Italian concessions in Tientsin, the French concession in Hankow, British and French concessions on Shamen island at Canton and an international settlement at Amoy.)

CHARGE CONSPIRACY

Benjamin Simon (above), a former business associate of the late Philip Musica-F. Donald Coster, was arrested in New York on a conspiracy charge. Brien McMahon, assistant United States Attorney, said Simon told him Coster had negotiated for the sale of more than a million rifles to Spain.

Coster's Letter Blames 'Bankers, Lawyers, Auditors, Appraisers'

SENT TO ATTORNEY

Says He 'Tried to Make Something Work for Interest of All'

New York—(U)—F. Donald Coster, born Philip Musica, said in a suicide note made public today that "bankers, lawyers, auditors, appraisers and incompetent high-salaried executives have bled McKesson and Robbins white."

The amazing swindler who shot himself to death in his Connecticut home when his activities were discovered said the company which he headed "should have been in receivership at the time of the crash one year after its reorganization."

"I have tried to hold it up to stay off the inevitable," he wrote. "No man has ever worked harder or received less pay to make something work out for the interest of all."

"There has always been friction within the board of directors because the wholesale business is a rotten business at best—the whole sale part wrote off million of bad debts and inventories. There was nothing said about that, just that the 1929 crash was responsible."

Exonerates Brothers

The note exonerated his brothers in masquerade and asserted he was "the victim of Wall street plunder and blackmail in a struggle for honest existence."

The note was made public by Samuel Reich, Coster-Musica's attorney.

The note asked that "the world judge if bankers, lawyers, auditors and appraisers that got millions out of the company knew nothing."

Coster-Musica denied that narcotics or alcohol was involved in his deals and asserted "I have not tried to ruin the company or the stockholders."

"If I did," Coster-Musica wrote, "I could have sold my holdings in 1928 for over $2,000,000. Instead, I am a ruined man through the treachery of legal intrigue."

Regarding his concealment of his masquerade from his wife, Coster-Musica said he had "too much pride and regard for a lonely, devoted and sick wife to confide in her my inner heart."

He said any gifts he made to his wife or members of his family was "not company money," and that his wife "had no knowledge of any nature or description of my situation or operations."

"My brothers-in-law both did as I asked them because they thought it was right and proper to do so and trusted me," he said. "They received no material reward and did so blindly—at my request."

Reich said the note was written the night before Coster-Musica shot himself, that it was addressed to Reich and found among the dead man's papers.

SENTENCED

Mrs. Fern Patricia Dull, convicted of manslaughter for the fatal shooting Oct. 17 of the man she considered her common-law husband, was sentenced today at St. Joseph, Mich., to serve 14 to 15 years in the Detroit House of Correction. Circuit Judge Mark D. Taylor denied a motion for a new trial.

The blonde "office wife" of William Holbrook, attorney whose death on a street near the Benton Harbor police station ended their nine-year romance, went before Judge Taylor this morning. A jury returned the verdict last night after deliberating for noon.

The picture shows Mrs. Dull as she was reading her pre-Christmas mail in her jail cell.

Body of Missing Girl Is Found in Isolated District

Pennsylvania State Troopers Start Search For Slayer

Tunkhannock, Pa.—(U)—Half a hundred state troopers were called into a search of this isolated, snow-covered countryside today for the slayer who strangled attractive, 19-year-old Margaret Martin and attempted to conceal her nude, battered body in a creek.

Investigators expressed belief the slayer either was a sex maniac with a cruel, distorted mind or a round-up man for a while slave ring, who killed the girl when he feared he would be caught.

Slashed and mutilated, the body of the brown-haired business school graduate was found yesterday in a burlap bag, partially submerged in three feet of water under an abandoned bridge.

A hand, protruding from the crudely-sewn sack, caught the attention of a young trapper as he wandered along the stream setting traps.

Victim Offered Job

The discovery ended a search that had been made through all north-eastern states since the girl left her home in Kingston, 30 miles away, Saturday to keep a daylight street-corner appointment with a man who had telephoned her an offer of a job.

Coroner Ray W. Greenwood said Miss Martin "definitely was murdered." An autopsy performed last night by Dr. G. G. Guyler, Wilkes-Barre, and A. B. Davenport, Tunkhannock, disclosed, they said, that death resulted from strangulation.

Daladier Wins by 7-Vote Majority

Chamber of Deputies Ratifies French Premier's Financial Program

Paris—(U)—Premier Daladier's plan to reorganize French finances by decree received approval for the second time today by the slim majority of seven votes in the chamber of deputies.

The chamber ratified by a vote of 291 to 284 the inclusion in the 1939 appropriation bill of a section carrying implied approval of all decree laws issued under the new three-year economic plan.

Daladier, who staked the life of his government on the vote, made little attempt to hide his opinion that the cabinet barely had squeezed out of a tight place.

He declared, however, he was optimistic over the formation of a "faithful majority" upon which he could depend.

As he left the chamber he told the deputies flatly that "if I had been overthrown I would have demanded immediate dissolution" of parliament.

Report 1,000 Arrests Made in Insurgent Spain in Effort to Put End to Espionage Activities

London—(U)—Official reports reaching London today asserted that "approximately 1,000" arrests had occurred in insurgent Spain in a great spy hunt which authorities effect the entire course of the Spanish civil war.

The arrests were the sequel of what the London informants called the "case of the dirty shirt."

The shirt in question was found in the baggage of Harold Goodman, British vice consul at San Sebastian, when he was stopped at Irun, on the French border, Monday. Inside it was "incriminating information" which led to the arrests.

An official statement from the insurgent foreign ministry at Burgos said documents found in Goodman's valise when he reached the border en route to France were "designed to inform the enemies of nationalist (insurgent) Spain about our future military operations."

For weeks reports from both sides in Spain have told of great insurgent preparations for a major offensive by which it was said Generalissimo Francisco Franco hoped to end the war. The offensive has been unaccountably delayed, although bad weather has been cited as an explanation.

The Burgos foreign ministry said preliminary inquiries disclosed the existence of "a vast organization"

Leaders Plan Conference on Cash for WPA

Emergency Fund Expected to be Given Congressional Approval

SEE EARLY ACTION

Present Relief Setup Likely to Face Criticism At Capital

Washington—(U)—In view of a disclosure that WPA will be out of money Feb. 7, senate and house leaders arranged today to confer soon with President Roosevelt on the amount of an emergency appropriation.

John L. Lewis, CIO leader, declared that $1,000,000,000 would be needed for relief purposes until July 1, but estimates on Capitol Hill ranged from $500,000,000 to $750,000,000.

Whatever the amount finally decided on, it appeared likely congress would take up the appropriation shortly after it meets Jan. 3. Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator, said yesterday that unless congress turns over more money at once, the relief agency must begin cutting its rolls Jan. 26 and close down entirely 12 days later.

Of the $1,425,000,000 which congress gave the WPA to last until March 1, less than $400,000,000 remains. Yesterday's treasury statement showed that WPA expenditures from Dec. 1 to 19 were $123,426,645.

Needs To Be Met

While many members of both senate and house were quick to say that any demonstrated need of the WPA for funds was almost certain to be met, opinion was divided over the possibility the present relief set-up would be criticized during discussion of the emergency appropriation.

Representative Woodruff (R-Mich.), chairman of the Republican conference committee, said he thought some members "on both sides of the aisle" would oppose any lump sum appropriation.

On the other hand, Senator McNary of Oregon, Republican floor leader, predicted Republicans would go along on a "reasonable" emergency appropriation and would talk about changing the system when the appropriations for the next fiscal year are broached.

Republicans have proposed that congress turn administration of relief back to the states. Some Democratic senators have advanced the suggestion that the states contribute from 25 to 33 1/3 per cent of the cost.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), calling WPA "a political liability," indicated he would support proposals for administrative changes.

Driver Killed When Truck Strikes Tree Near Prairie du Sac

Prairie du Sac, Wis.—(U)—Elmer Schultz, 23, Chicago, died in the blazing wreckage of the truck he was driving as it crashed into a tree on a curve in Highway 12 here today.

The truck was owned by the Schumacher Motor Express company of Eau Claire. Schultz, who roomed at Eau Claire, had been employed by the firm for a year and a half.

Schultz left Eau Claire late last night with a load of tires, poultry and eggs. At the edge of Prairie du Sac, his machine left the road as Schultz attempted to negotiate a curve on a hill. It plowed into the tree and burst into flames.

The fire had gained such headway by the time the Prairie du Sac fire department was notified that the firemen were unable to extricate Schultz's body until after it had been burned beyond recognition. The cargo was destroyed.

Alleged Spies are Indicted in West

Los Angeles—(U)—Indictments charging espionage returned by the federal grand jury after a secret session, today named Mikhail Gorin, 34, coast manager of the official soviet travel bureau, and Hafis Salich, 33, former Brekeley, Calif., policeman and employee of the United States Naval Intelligence Service.

Both defendants are in jail in default of bonds of $25,000. If convicted, they face sentences of 20 years on three counts in the indictment. The indictment alleged:

"That they took instruments, documents and notes regarding matters connected with national defense;

"That they transmitted the documents to a foreign power (Russia) to the advantage of that country and against 'the peace, dignity and safety' of the United States;

"That they entered into a conspiracy beginning in September, 1936, to accomplish these things."

Salich, Russian-born, is a naturalized American. The jury heard testimony that he received $1,700 for various documents transmitted to Gorin. Among the witnesses were naval intelligence service officers and federal bureau of investigation agents.

All Well With Colony On Volcanic Island

Paris—(U)—Messages from a lobster-fishing expedition which has been reported in distress because of storms and a coal shortage in the south Indian ocean disclosed today that all was well with the colony of 48 persons at isolated St. Paul island.

The messages were relayed through Madagascar, 1,700 miles from St. Paul, from Captain Hohn de Boers and showed that he remained in command of the expedition which began last May when 33 persons set out from St. Malo, France, on the 580-ton trawler L'Isle Bourbon.

Friends of expedition members yesterday said one man, Louis Bellia, first engineer, was the only one of the original 33 aboard the L'Isle Bourbon.

Chicago Watchman Is Found Slain at Plant

Chicago—(U)—Zuave Polin, 38-year-old watchman for a bottling company on the west side, was found beaten to death today with his hands and feet securely lashed.

Police said his killers had driven away with a company truck containing a safe holding some $300 or $400.

Joseph Brady, owner of the Liberty Bottling company, discovered the body when he reached the plant in the 4400 block of W. Cermak road this morning.

Polin's brother, flashlight, cap and shattered watch lay on the bloodstained floor. Following bloodstains a hundred feet to the rear of the body, Brady came upon the battered body. No instruments with which the watchman might have been beaten were found.

Heil Seeks Ways Of Raising Funds For Huge Budget

Mrs. Duncan Asks LaFollette To Pardon Mate; Prosecutor Opposes Petition at Hearing

Madison—(U)—Mrs. Catherine Duncan, Milwaukee, personally requested Governor Philip LaFollette at a hearing in the executive office today, to pardon her husband, Thomas M. Duncan, the governor's former secretary, who is serving a one to two year term in the Milwaukee House of Correction for fourth degree manslaughter.

Duncan was convicted of driving an automobile while intoxicated and causing the death of Henry Schuette, a retired West Allis business man, in an accident on the Wisconsin avenue bridge in Milwaukee. He began serving his term June 13.

In a brief hearing, which lasted less than half an hour, Governor LaFollette heard both from Mrs. Duncan and from District Attorney Herbert J. Steffes, who opposed the pardon application.

Then he took the appeal under advisement with the statement that he would do his best to decide the matter justly.

Cites Ailment

Mrs. Duncan based her plea on the ground that her husband is suffering from a vascular ailment, that he had a long unblemished record of public service and that his political prominence will tend to "rob" him of proper consideration when he becomes eligible for parole.

She referred to a letter which Circuit Judge G. N. Risjord wrote to Steffes after the trial, defending the reduced sentence he had imposed and she declared the medical testimony introduced in her husband's defense at the trial had been ignored.

"Tom is held in the house of correction," she said, "What does the name 'correction' mean?"

She spoke rapidly and apparently with nervous tension.

"You know Tom Duncan," she told the governor.

"There is no doubt in your mind or in my mind of Tom's innocence. I have known him since I was 13 years old."

Points To Record

She referred to his public service in Milwaukee and his service to the governor in the capacity of secretary and financial adviser. She spoke particularly of his work in helping organize the Milwaukee Police and Fire Commission.

"He devoted himself to the service of the state and the mass of the people," she said.

And then she repeated:

"You know Tom Duncan as well as I do."

"I leave to your conscience and integrity what shall be done for my husband," she added.

Mrs. Duncan said she had been accompanied to Madison by her oldest son, Thomas, Jr., and that their other son, John, a student at

Good Fellow Fund Still $190 Short; Start on Baskets

Christmas Dinners for Poor Ready for Distribution Tonight, Friday

Aided by a gift of $50 from an anonymous Good Fellow, the Christmas basket fund jumped to $1435 this noon, still about $190 short of the amount that the eight cooperating charities hoped would be the minimum made available to them. Contributions yesterday totaled $170 from 39 Good Fellows. Two days still remain for more Good Fellows to send in their contributions that will help make Christmas a little brighter for Appleton's unfortunate families.

Headquarters of several relief agencies participating in this fund became "beehives" this morning as volunteer workers—mostly women—began the task of filling baskets. Families scheduled to receive help have been carefully investigated to determine their needs and every effort will be made to provide each family with the things most needed. All baskets will include a Christmas dinner, from meat to nuts; many of them will have fruit for invalids and there will be toys and candy for the children. The Hi-Y club has been working for days repairing and repainting toys so they are good as new, and many a tiny boy and girl

U. S. Rejects Reich's Demand For Apology for Ickes Attack Upon European Dictatorships

Washington—(U)—Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state disclosed today the United States had rejected Germany's demand for an official apology for Secretary Ickes' speech in Cleveland last Sunday attacking dictatorships.

Welles told Dr. Hans Thomsen, the German charge d'affaires, that the request came with singularly ill grace and impropriety from a government which had so persistently permitted its controlled press and officials to attack American leaders, including Presidents Wilson and Roosevelt and present members of the cabinet.

The acting secretary of state advised Thomsen that Ickes' remarks represented the feeling of an overwhelming majority of the American people, who had been profoundly shocked by recent events in Germany.

Welles' statement to the German envoy was couched in strong and uncompromising terms which the United States rarely uses in diplomatic discussions with a friendly government.

He told Thomsen the German government must now surely know that the recent policy pursued in Germany had shocked and confounded public opinion in the United States more profoundly than anything that had taken place in many decades. Welles warned Thomsen that expressions of public indignation such as Ickes' were inevitable.

Ickes had said Germany's treatment of Jews carried that nation back to "a period of history when man was unlettered, benighted and bestial." The interior secretary also

Total of $96,000,000 Requested for Biennium

Madison—(U)—Faced with an estimated $26,000,000 increase in state expenditures, Governor-elect Julius P. Heil today studied methods of raising revenue sufficient to pay the state's expenses during the biennium beginning July 1, 1939.

A total of $96,000,000 in requests had piled up when budget hearings ended last night. The figure represents the sums department heads said they would need to continue administration of state activities.

To meet this demand, the new governor will have an estimated $45,000,000 in receipts from all forms of taxation, according to Budget Director James Borden. A reliable source said this amount may be depleted by a 40 per cent decrease in income and corporation taxes. Borden said, however, his estimate of receipts was "conservative."

Curtailment Seen

The governor-elect has indicated two ways of making ends meet. Last week he said a "luxury" tax may be enacted to raise funds to pay the state's social security obligations for pensions, relief, aid for dependent children and other aids. On the other side he has hinted that many of the state's activities will be curtailed substantially if not entirely eliminated.

Heil said he would hold no further public hearings on the University of Wisconsin budget, and the department of social adjustment's requests, both of which were left unfinished when Heil called for more concise reports. It was believed the desired information would be turned over to his financial aid, Charles McKeown.

Before adjourning Heil flayed the beverage and oil inspection division of the bureau of inspection and enforcement, the latter for the second time since the hearings began.

"I want to get rid of that everlasting political machine once and for all," he said, referring to the oil division.

May End Division

"I will have none of that when I am governor. I want men who will work a day for a full day's pay. We have to do something about it, because the citizens of this state are paying for it through their purchase of gasoline and oil."

The governor-elect indicated previously he might eliminate the entire division, and hinted yesterday that the group would be curtailed drastically if it was allowed to remain in existence.

"I am not going to recommend a thing right now about oil inspection," he said. "I must have some oil inspection. I know, but I want to talk this over further. I want to study this 'baby' because I think the 'baby' is pretty sick."

Claiming some of the division's liquor inspectors campaigned for LaFollette during the recent election, Heil exclaimed: "You can see that there was not very good efficiency in the department. I want to get rid of that kind of efficiency."

"If a man is inefficient, he is not going to stay with the state government, civil service or no civil service, and I think the legislature will back me up on that," he declared.

Suggest Merged Duties

Heil suggested that the duties of inspection and enforcement in the liquor tax division be combined, and that the state change its liquor seals monthly to make tax evasion more difficult and eliminate the need for much inspection. At present inspection and enforcement are handled by separate divisions.

Heil also urged the traffic inspection section to study ways whereby the state may obtain more revenue from heavy trucks traveling over Wisconsin roads in interstate commerce.

Biennium budget requests presented yesterday included: bureau of inspection and enforcement, $916,427; legislative reference library, $28,800; up $4,800; director of the budget $45,000; governor's office, $59,000; and state fair, $50,000 for operation. The department of agriculture and markets previously had requested $30,000 for maintenance of fair buildings.

CCC Spends $20,000 in War Against Pneumonia

Washington—(U)—The CCC disclosed today it was spending $20,000 to develop a commercial vaccine against pneumonia.

Officials said it was the new vaccine originated by Dr. Lloyd Felton of Johns Hopkins university and prepared by the army medical school. The appropriation, covering the period from October through next March was announced in the war department's annual report to Director Robert Fechner on its work with the CCC.

Tests of the vaccine in the corps, the report said, showed favorable results. While the experience was not sufficient to form an opinion on the vaccine's protective value, results indicated that immunity was conferred in a number of instances.

Portage, Wis.—(U)—Zona Gale Breese, the novelist, is seriously ill in Passavant hospital, Chicago. It was reported at the Breese home here today.

Mrs. Breese suffers pneumonia and was placed in an oxygen room upon being taken to the Passavant hospital last night from another Chicago hospital where she has been under treatment for 12 days. Her illness started with a cold.

A report received at noon said Mrs. Breese's condition was somewhat improved.

Pison Found in Body of Pierce Toxicologist Says Exposure Primary Cause Of Death. Physician Asserts

Janesville —(P)—State Toxicologist Frank Kozelka reported today he had found poison in the organs of Everett Lincoln "Ret" Pierce, 74, whose body was found stuffed in a haystack behind his home near Milton Dec. 10.

Dr. Samuel Freitag of Janesville, who performed an autopsy, said, however, that exposure primarily was the cause of Pierce's death, that pneumonia had set in and that his heart had been weak.

Pierce was last seen, his brother Sidney told Sheriff James Croake, Dec. 2 after "Ret" had drunk about a quart of liquor given him by Curtis Hansen, 35-year-old farmhand who lived at the Pierce home. The sheriff said Hansen bought poison, of the same kind and in the same amount found in Pierce's stomach at Milton, Nov. 21, telling the druggist he wanted to kill rats.

The bodies of Hansen and Mary Cunningham, 15-year-old Milton Junction High school girl, were found in an automobile Dec. 7. Coroner E. J. Overton found that Hansen shot her and then committed suicide.

Sheriff Blames Hansen

Everett Pierce's bloodstained coat was found in the rear of the automobile, and then search for his body started. Sheriff Croake expressed himself as "satisfied" that Hansen was responsible for Pierce's death, although, he said bloodstains on Pierce's coat might have come from a cut near his ear.

Coroner Overton said today he was undecided whether to continue with an inquest.

Sidney Pierce's story of the last he was with his brother was reported thus by county authorities:

Hansen gave a quart of liquor to "Ret" Pierce and the latter drank it in two hours. One bottle was found later at the home.

"Ret" became violently ill and shouted that he had been poisoned. Sidney and Hansen then started in the automobile for Milton, but a short distance from the home the car apparently stalled. Hansen went back to the house ostensibly for a pair of pliers. When he returned, they continued on to Milton. When they returned, "Ret" was gone.

Cut in Trucking Rates Is Rejected Commerce Commission Acts to Prevent "Cycle Of Reductions"

Washington—(P)—Seeking to prevent "a cycle of rate reductions," the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday rejected tariffs filed in behalf of approximately 50 middle west truck concerns.

A proposal was made by the truckers to establish new rates on practically all freight between Chicago and points in Wisconsin; between Chicago and points in Illinois and Indiana; and between Evansville, Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Muncie, and South Bend, Ind. The proposed rates were described as generally lower than those now in effect.

The commission said that as a practical matter the rates would be limited almost exclusively to traffic of freight forwarders and a few large shippers. Approval of the rates might encourage other carriers to establish preferential rates in an effort to court favor with large shippers, the commission said.

"Establishment of rates on forward traffic lower than the general level of rates applicable on similar traffic handled for other shippers would doubtless be followed by similar reductions by rail and other competing carriers," the commission said.

Sen. Harrison Would Encourage Industry Will Meet at Madison

Cincinnati —(P)—Senator Pat Harrison (D-Miss.) left with an audience here today a statement that the government's "policy" would be to encourage industry to give employment rather than continue the present role of program.

"Whatever benefits may have come from these (government) expenditures . . . there are tens of thousands of our citizens whose rugged characters have been affected and whose views on life and government have been transformed," said the chairman of the senate finance committee last night in a University of Cincinnati lecture.

Winter Camp Scouts Will Travel by Bus To Gardner Dam Site

About 33 of the 40 boy scouts and scouters who will attend the valley council winter camp at Gardner Dam will leave from Appleton by bus Tuesday morning, Dec. 27, Walter Dixon, scout executive, said today.

The camp will last through Friday, Dec. 30. The bus will take the boys from this part of the council to the camp, the remaining scouts traveling there by passenger car.

Dixon said that a few more registrations for camp will be accepted. The scouts will use the new Miner camp buildings as headquarters during their 4-day outing, which will be featured by ski and snowshoe hikes, skating, horseback riding and occasional indoor recreation.

Extend Time for Payment of 1938 Real Estate Tax

An ordinance extending the time of payment of 50 per cent of real estate taxes from March 1 to not later than July 31 was adopted at a council meeting last night.

To take advantage of the extension, taxpayers by March 1 must pay 50 per cent of their regular taxes and all special taxes assessed against their properties in installments. Special assessments levied in full with 1938 real estate taxes may be extended.

The ordinance provides that the payment of the extended amount must be made in one sum and will be due and payable between July 1 and July 31. Extended taxes which are paid in the time prescribed by the ordinance will bear an interest charge of 1 per cent of the amount extended.

If the extended amounts are not paid before July 31, they will be declared delinquent and will be subject to the state law on delinquency, the ordinance provides. No extension of time will be granted on personal property taxes.

Grant License

Aldermen granted the Conway Management company a license to operate a tavern at 124 W. Washington street, formerly the Northern hotel. The vote was 9 to 2 with Alderman DeLand and Thompson voting no.

Alderman DeLand maintained he didn't believe in creating another tavern in a new place and said he had interviewed a number of people at random on the streets and all agreed with him. He also opposed granting the license on the grounds that the Conway company already operates one tavern in the city.

B. J. Zuchlik, 702 E. North street, was re-appointed to the Appleton Park board for five years by Mayor John Goodland, Jr. The appointment was unanimously confirmed by the council.

The council made several changes in the wage scale for the PWA project involving construction of a garage and storeroom at the sewage disposal plant.

Aldermen adjourned to 7:30 Friday evening to consider bids on the construction of a new police station and the remodeling of Lincoln school so that the building may be used for a city hall. Bids will be opened by the board of public works at 2:30 Friday afternoon.

Shoppers Increase Activity During Rush of Holiday Season

BY L. J. DERUS

A young man enters the store and mingles with the hustling and bustling Christmas crowds. He does not seem in the hurry that the other shoppers do, but saunters up and down the aisles and finally comes to a stop before an open counter bearing small articles. He glances about casually, that is, casually to the average shopper but suspiciously to the sharpened eye of the spotter, and leans over the counter to reach an article on the farther side.

It is his left hand that is outstretched, and in the meantime his right hand, covered by his body, wraps its fingers about another article that slips beneath the loose folds of his coat. It is a Christmas shoplifter in action.

Counters overloaded with holiday articles are a chief attraction to shoppers and also to shoplifters.

Marriage, Divorce Rates at New High

University of Chicago Research Workers Reveal Findings

Chicago—(P)—The 1937 marriage and divorce rates in the United States were the highest since 1923, two University of Chicago research workers estimated today.

They found there were 11,033 marriages and 1,933 divorces for every 1,000 persons. The marriage rate was 40 per cent above that of the depression year of 1932 and the divorce rate was 50 per cent higher than in the peak year of 1935.

The statistics were compiled by Dr. Samuel A. Stouffer, professor of sociology, and Lyle M. Spencer, formerly of Appleton, Wis., and were based on marriage reports from 23 states and divorce figures from 16 states. National statistics were not published prior to 1920 and the census bureau ceased to issue them in 1932.

Dr. Stouffer and Spencer reported Florida had the greatest gain—50 per cent—in the number of divorces in 1936 and 1937.

Reno divorces slumped sharply and although Nevada quadrupled its divorces between 1920 and 1937 the state total was six per cent fewer in the latter year than in 1936.

Ohio State Rewards 81-Year-Old 'Handy Man' With Diploma

Columbus, Ohio—(P)—A fellow who's attended Ohio State University commencement exercises for 38 years finally got his diploma.

Charles M. Hicks, 81-year-old "handy man" at the university, at fall quarter graduation exercises yesterday received a diploma citing him for "duty well performed."

"For the past 18 years he has been a handy man," observed Acting President William McPherson in making the award. "I like that title. Not many of us would be deserving of it."

Hicks, who will retire Jan. 1, said: "I hadn't a notion they'd planned a thing like that. I'm going to take it home and frame it right away."

WOMAN SEIZED FOR BANK ROBBERY

This woman, who identified herself as Mrs. Mary McCollum, 36, an unemployed widow formerly of Murphysboro, Ill., was seized in a South Side Chicago bank, after, Police Captain Eugene Barry said, she had obtained $5,000 from the bank president by threatening in a note to "blow up the place and kill everybody" with two vials supposedly filled with nitro-glycerin. She was seized at the door of the bank. She later said she was Mrs. Mary Schuch. The vials were found to contain only water.

Shoppers Increase Activity During Rush of Holiday Season

BY L. J. DERUS

A young man enters the store and mingles with the hustling and bustling Christmas crowds. He does not seem in the hurry that the other shoppers do, but saunters up and down the aisles and finally comes to a stop before an open counter bearing small articles. He glances about casually, that is, casually to the average shopper but suspiciously to the sharpened eye of the spotter, and leans over the counter to reach an article on the farther side.

It is his left hand that is outstretched, and in the meantime his right hand, covered by his body, wraps its fingers about another article that slips beneath the loose folds of his coat. It is a Christmas shoplifter in action.

Counters overloaded with holiday articles are a chief attraction to shoppers and also to shoplifters.

Warehouse Workers End Buffalo Strike

Buffalo, N. Y. —(P)—Hundreds of tons of Christmas foodstuffs refilled depleted retail store stocks today in this city of 600,000 as warehouse and produce workers ended a two-day strike.

Members of Warehouse and Produce Workers Local 558, an affiliate of the A. F. of L. International Teamsters union, voted last night to return to work and accept a compromise agreement with the food industry of western New York.

The agreement will be in effect until April 1, 1940. A union spokesman said it provided for a closed shop, seniority rights, wage increases ranging from two and one half to five cents an hour and a guarantee of a 40-hour week for warehouse workers.

Producer workers received guarantees of overtime pay and a two and one-half cent an hour increase to compensate for the shorter work week made necessary under the federal wages and hour law.

Juneau County Would Sell Its Jail Cheap

Mauston —(P)—Who wants to buy a jail?

The Juneau county board, which voted a bond issue of $36,000 yesterday to complete a new courthouse and jail, wants to sell the old jail, providing it can find a buyer.

The old courthouse is to be salvaged. The final addition to the new courthouse, including a court room and a third floor for a jail and living quarters for the sheriff, is a $125,000 WPA project. The first unit, including offices for most county officials, will be ready for occupancy next April.

Heil Aides Include Veteran Businessmen, Young Lawyers

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison—The state of Wisconsin is going to be governed during the next two years by elderly businessmen and youthful barristers, developments within the new Republican administration during the last few days have shown.

While the new governor will be surrounded in his advisory council and in his office staff by influential Milwaukee industrialists who are social and business associates, and who helped him in his recent campaign, the Republican house majorities in the legislature will be led by young lawyers.

Sitting next to Heil at the official budget hearing thus far this month have been a group of men who are expected to figure large in executive office policy during the Heil term. They include Charles McKeown, who will become a secretary and advisor, Frank Klode, prominent Milwaukee furniture man, Thaddeus Wasilewski, another Milwaukee manufacturer, J. F. Horn, comptroller of Heil's manufacturing business, and Fred Cord, well-known lobbyist for business and industrial interests.

Names Secretary

Heil's appointment of another prominent Milwaukee business figure to an executive post has been announced. He is William C. Maas, fuel man in the metropolis, who will be an executive secretary to the new governor.

Thus far, according to public appearances, these men are much closer to the new executive than the leaders of the Republican party which Heil led to victory this fall.

In the meantime developments among the Republican blocs in both legislative houses show that young lawyers, some of them extremely young, will monopolize the leadership in the second branch of the government this winter.

Callin Key Figure

In most quarters it is expected that Reuben Peterson of Berlin will be chosen speaker of the assembly, while Milton Murray of Milwaukee will be the principal floorleader. Both are lawyers. They will be assisted by Mark Catlin of Appleton, and Vernon Thomson of Richland Center, also lawyers.

In the senate, where a Coalition group will dominate, lawyers will also loom large in steering administration affairs. Maurice Coakley, the most astute parliamentarian ever to sit in the legislature's upper chamber, is a lawyer. Kenneth White, who will be in a position of influence because of previous experience, is another. For the Democratic side of the Coalition majority lawyers will speak in Cornelius T. Young of Milwaukee and Francis A. Yindra of Manitowish.

Relief Expenses In County Jump $2,000 in Month

Cost for November Is $10,964 for 518 Cases. Report Shows

Large increases in hospitalization, shelter and fuel costs brought the November relief expenses of the county to $10,964.88, according to a report of the Outagamie County Public Welfare department. The total was an increase of about $2,000 over October when expenses were $8,859.39.

During the month $1,207.45 was spent for hospitalization as compared with $563.08 in October. Fuel costs in November were $1,250.01 as compared with $473.45 in October, and shelter costs $1,619.95 in November as against $1,277.66 the previous month.

Other November costs were groceries $4,094.72 as against $3,987.04 in October, clothing $197.99 as against $171.01 in October, medical care $982.02 as against $734.46 in October, relief in kind $325.92 as against $204.34 in October, cash relief $352.79 as against $280.74 in October, and rent $954.01 as against $1,167.61 in October. Burials cost $445, but this amount is not included in the above total.

November showed 518 cases being cared for as compared with 476 cases in October. The total cost was about $1,100 less than for November of 1937.

Formulate Policy For Operation of 2 Radio Stations

Dedicate Units to Preservation of 'Democratic Ideals, Methods'

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—The state's two pioneer publicly-owned, non-commercial radio stations, WHA at Madison and WLBL at Stevens Point, today had been dedicated by the University of Wisconsin board of regents at the instance of President C. A. Dykstra to the preservation of "democratic ideals and methods."

Administration of the two state stations was recently transferred to the board of regents, which has set up the state radio council. Formerly they were under the control of the state department of agriculture and markets.

The statement of policy, said Dykstra, is the first to be drafted by a public radio administration in the United States, and is expected to become a model for others.

It is the desire of the council, it was said, to make the two stations "an extension of the educational arms of the state."

Shape Policy
"The state radio council undertakes the formulation of a statement of policy during a period of world-wide distress and discord," the statement declares. "It has before it not only the inspiring record of the constructive and beneficial possibilities of this new agency as mass communication, but also the disturbing examples, at home and abroad, of its destructive and malign use; the use by uninformed, or unscrupulous or fanatical factions to misinform, mislead, and rouse the passions of their fellows."

"This new instrument of mass communication now makes it possible for one voice to be heard throughout the land. Gone, then, or at least impaired, is the constitutionally guaranteed freedom of communication in the public and cultural affairs of the nation unless the use of the radio is so safeguarded that all voices have reasonable assurance of access to it."

"In the light of these cherished aspirations for individual security and freedom, the council believes that the dominant consideration in the formulation and repeated review of the broad policies governing the use of the state's radio facilities is the dedication of the new agency of communication to democratic ideals and methods."

Landon Suggests Workable Plan to Lima Conference

German, Italian Poison Squads Busy at Pan-American Meeting

Herewith is the third of a series of articles by former United States Senator Henry J. Allen, an authority on Pan American conditions which he is writing for The Post-Crescent on the Lima conference. His broad experience in newspaper and magazine writing and his intimate knowledge of South America admirably equip him for interpreting understandingly the important meeting now in progress. Mr. Allen is publisher of the Topeka State Journal.

BY HENRY J. ALLEN

Lima—The favorable impression created by President Roosevelt's appointment of his former political adversary Alf M. Landon to the Pan American Congress, has grown with Mr. Landon's work in the Pan American Congress.

His selection as U. S. chairman of the Committee on Peace, which is known as the Committee Number One in the Congress, gave the Kansas a congenial task. Governor Landon's recent broadcast indicates the direction of his thought in reference to the practical work which this committee may do. Apparently he does not contemplate an elaborate set up, with ornate international headquarters and an impressive secretariat. Governor Landon has always been a believer in the efficacy of conferences in which men get together to thresh over their common causes. Therefore when in his broadcast he said, "There has been an over-confidence in the ability of a rigid peace structure to master all the elements of human relationship and national consciousness," he makes it plain that he favors a rather loose though intimate setup which would bring the heads of the state department and the various republics together as frequently as once each year.

No Rigid Program
He would not have a rigid program to make this committee only an emergency resort when peace is threatened; he would make it a continuing association, the only inexorable feature of which would be a regular annual meeting—this meeting not in a conspicuous atmosphere with bands playing and proclamations waving but in a simpler state where the heads of the foreign affairs departments of all the republics might talk about common problems and give each other the benefit of their friendly counsel.

Governor Landon holds the opinion that war would be difficult to arouse amongst those who hold frequent personal meetings to discuss their mutual affairs. As a practical man who has tested the power of the conference table in many relations of life and government, he grows enthusiastic over the possible results of this type of organizations not only for stabilizing peace in the Latin Union but for the increase of friendly trade relations fostered by nations which trust each other and find pleasure and profit in dealing with each other.

Simple And Informal
The strength of Governor Landon's suggestion is in its simplicity and informality. And international conference annually between heads and state departments to talk things over might never have to confront

Need Open-Minded Inquiry to Determine Defense Program

Washington—The biggest national defense need right now is to find out what we need for national defense. We aren't going to find out the way we are going about it.

The air is full of confusion. Amateur strategists are running about in all directions, growing more belligerent every hour. Peace societies and Republicans don't know what Roosevelt's defense program is but they're against it. Landon says the United States will not permit any foreign power to get a foothold in South America, while Senator George Norris fires back that he doesn't want to be bound to protect South America under all circumstances. Factions in the war department are scarcely speaking to each other. We may not be faced with war against an outside power but we certainly are facing a first-class row among ourselves.

At this point it might be a good idea to sit down and count 10. Open-minded inquiry is the first order of business. Find out what we need. We won't be able to do this by hearing senators make speeches. Congress might well approach the defense problem as it is approaching the monopoly question. In other words, follow the objective, dispassionate method of inquiry which has been used so successfully by British royal commissions. The O'Mahoney Economic Investigating committee is the first real attempt congress has made to conduct that type of objective, open-minded inquiry. Congressional hearings usually are smearing parties. The object is not to find the facts but to obtain a kangaroo-court conviction.

No Need to Bull
Anyone in Oil
Chairman O'Mahoney, in the first two series of hearings before his joint economic committee, has demonstrated that it is possible to conduct a penetrating and conclusive line of inquiry without boiling anybody in oil. The very cold objectivity of the procedure made the facts disclosed in the investigating of the glass bottle industry all the more devastating. From testimony of top executives in the industry itself, the O'Mahoney committee laid bare a picture of tight monopoly, combining the crop-control features of AAA and the industrial regulation of NRA all neatly executed by private industry through a monopolistic grip on the business of manufacturing glass bottles.

But nobody was hauled out of town on a rail. On the contrary, as the glass bottle hearings closed, Chairman O'Mahoney thanked the glass bottle executives for cooperating to provide the facts. Trust Bustorff, chairman, and then Judge Edgar Goodrich, counsel for the witnesses, thanked the committee for its unfailing courtesy and kindness to his clients. If Judge Goodrich had brought his guitar along, the hearings would have wound up in a singing party.

Yet the record of those hearings is packed with enough dynamite to blow the present patent system out of the water, as it may very likely do.

Joint Senate, House Committee Should be Named
How are you going to find out whether we need 10,000 planes or not, whether we need a plan for a big army, what the navy needs, whether the CCC camps should be put to training aviation mechanics, or whether we have a surplus of such workmen now as they say around CCC headquarters?

One way to find out, and to find out promptly, would be for congress to set up a joint house and senate committee, start hearings immediately and cover the whole field—what our foreign policy ought to be and what we need in the way of armament to support that policy.

The regular procedure in congress is inadequate. It is foolish to have the house naval affairs committee holding hearings and bringing in a naval program, the house military affairs committee bringing in an army program after long hearings, and the procedure then being duplicated in the senate committees, with the senate foreign relations committee considering what our foreign policy should be—in other words half a dozen committees and several subcommittees, each working separately, with no

Christmas Party to Be Given at School At Combined Locks

Combined Locks — The main feature of the Christmas party which will be given Friday afternoon at the Combined Locks school will be "Virginia's Christmas," a 50-minute one-act comedy, which takes place on Christmas eve in the comfortable living room of the Galls' home.

While Mr. and Mrs. Gall attended the bridge party at the Connelly's, Virginia, their only child, is left in charge of Bridget, the maid. As the Christmas carolers pass the Gall home, Virginia invites them in and has a Christmas party of her own—sharing her Christmas gifts with her guests while Bridget treats the carolers with candy and apples.

Mrs. Iris Gall, the mother, will be played by Sylvia Bosch; Joe Gall, the father, by John Roger Erickson; Virginia, their daughter, Mildred Van Dalen; Bridget, the maid, Alice Conrad; Tom, leader of the carolers, Bobby Van Zealand; the carolers, who will sing the familiar Christmas songs, Norman Janssen, Donald Van Geffen, Ruth Hartzheim, Betty Lom, Delores Bosens, Alice Mae Janssen, Donald De Volk, Willard Bolwerk, Marvin Schumacher, Therese Opsteen, Benjamin Wells, Lois Hartzheim, Laverne Kamps, Catherine Hartjes, Gretchen Lom, Lucina Van Cuyk, Veronica Van Linn, Kay Dreger, Rosemary Weyenberg, Anna Van Geffen, Jimmie Hartjes, Lawrence Van Cuyk and Julius Hartjes.

During Virginia's party, specialties will be presented. Alice Mae Janssen will do acrobatic stunts; Norman Janssen will present a tap dance number; Ruth Hartzheim, a piano solo; Jack De Valk, a recitation entitled "Too Bad;" Therese Opsteen, a reading, "Watching for Santa;" Benjamin Wells, Laverne Kamps and Catherine Hartjes, a dialog entitled "The Baby Jesus;" Kay Dreger, an accordion selection; Julius and Jimmie Hartjes, a duet on the Jews' harp and harmonica, respectively. Virginia will entertain her guests by playing selections on her accordion. The play will be brought to a close with the singing of "Silent Night" by the entire group.

Santa will attend the Christmas party and distribute sacks of goodies to about 170 children. Christmas gifts will be exchanged. John Roger Erickson will accompany the carolers at the piano and will also give accordion solos during the course of the Christmas party.

MR. IKES BERATES HITLER

When Will Rogers read the names Mr. Roosevelt selected for cabinet seats he remarked that the Forgotten Man had been found, "In fact he consists of nine men and one woman," which was Mr. Rogers' way of characterizing the cabinet as a great piece of mediocrity deliberately selected by the President so that his own light might not be outshone.

But Mr. Rogers was not entirely right. The cabinet, it is true, contains some glaring misfits and others so incompetent that they have become the laughing stock of commentators who have cared to dwell upon the unhappy subject.

Mr. Ickes is one of the competent ones. He is a bundle of energy and determination. He appears to have character and an innate and explosive sort of honesty, all of which is well.

But few of these cabinet members, Mr. Ickes included, seem to have any conception of the dignity of their official position particularly in relation to foreign affairs and their own public declarations.

The other day Mr. Ickes at a Zionist meeting in Ohio sharply criticized Henry Ford and Colonel Lindbergh for accepting decorations from the German tyrant. He characterized Herr Hitler in highly offensive personal fashion.

Any criticism of Americans for accepting decorations from abroad is within the fair jurisdiction of our privileges. France and England have often used decorations, it has seemed to us, to gain the good will of certain leaders in this country. As a people we criticize freely those women who craved merely the privilege of presentation to English royalty, undecorated as that privilege was.

Neither was there anything said by Mr. Ickes against Hitler that hasn't been said in this country many millions of times by tens of millions of people. The privileges that the citizen carries are dangerous only as his importance increases. But for a member of a President's cabinet in this country to bullrag a ruler of another country is highly impolitic, valueless for any purpose, a breeder of bitter resentment abroad and an exhibition of an irascible temper.

Mr. Ickes in thus deliberately and unnecessarily visiting a personal attack upon the German ruler only gave the country a taste of the unstable character of our own rulers, of their willingness to openly hazard peaceful relations with other parts of the world just to gain a passing handclap.

Men in Mr. Ickes' position, however otherwise capable or sincere, who cannot realize the offense committed against the American people through the spewing out of these gratuitous insults, are incompetent in the sense that they cannot be trusted with any really great problem that requires a long and cool head and the tact that men must have who are expected to so comport themselves as to strengthen all their official acts.

MONOPOLY

The word monopoly has always had a fearsome sound in every democracy, for the public instinctively understands that there runs with monopoly certain abuses of a stifling, choking character that free men are not likely to tolerate for long.

The Anti-Monopoly Committee has had a great many prayers said in its favor, principal among which is the prayer that it will have the intellectual capacity and the moral honesty to take hold of its subject: thoroughly and with judicial fairness.

It may not yet be time to complain but it is early enough to point at great gaps in the procedure followed. For instance, the bottle industry was shown to be a monopoly protected by certain patents against which competitors simply could not combat because the methods covered by these patents produced an article at less cost. So far it appears that the bottle industry has operated within the law. It may be one of the few exceptions representing an extreme case of what the control of patents may accomplish.

But of course the monopoly problem is not at all cleared up in the public mind until we find what sort of animals run with it. What are the labor relations existing in the bottle industry, what are the prices at which products are furnished the trade, and therefore, what are the profits upon the invested capital?

Certainly the public would like to know how far, if at all, even a patent monopolized business is or can be affected by comparable industries. Bottles fight cans and are now attacked by another enemy, glazed paper containers. It is a fair guess that the price of bottles cannot get very far out of line even under a monopoly, but since it is only a guess and facts are the desirable things our Anti-Monopoly Committee has neglected its work in failing to present every material factor in each case of monopoly which it bares.

How otherwise can the value or harm of a monopoly be tested? How otherwise may the public agree upon the extent to which it wishes to rid itself of these conditions?

Obviously it does not want to scrap values or improvements or worthwhile working conditions merely for some imaginary terror.

If the committee sees fit to merely unceremoniously expect to conclude its work in that manner it will have missed one of the greatest opportunities any committee ever had to be of genuine service.

CASTING WPA WORKERS OUT

There have been some sitdown strikes among WPA workers, and not a hundred miles away.

Here is one place where justice almost demands the sitdown as a weapon against disreputable political manipulation although it is still illegal and cannot therefore be countenanced.

But to review something of the treatment of WPAers may be in order.

For several months just preceding the election a great many thousands of men and women all over the country were added to WPA rolls. While this was most evident in closely contested states, and Wisconsin had long since been sold down the river so far as the Democratic party was concerned, the WPA workers still occupied a place where they could be seen from Washington and smiled at.

Now, of course, the election is over, the jig is up and the joke turns into something of a leer.

Every day from now forward WPA workers throughout the country will be dumped.

But they should be reminded from some source that this result was predicted when the President was so free with national funds before the election. They will be told now that the funds are becoming exhausted. Of course anyone who had a pencil and had been through the fourth grade could figure all that out last summer. Had there been any real honesty in this thing, any genuine character, instead of the duplicity and hypocrisy that have accompanied practically all national orders concerning it there would never have been any padding of the rolls.

It might be interesting for our people to know that the record shows that these rolls have been padded before every election since the stunt was started.

Now that the farmers have become as wise to this administration as they became to lightning rod salesman during generations past, isn't it about time for WPA workers to get on?

We have one national policy in respect to them but it is so strung out and interlarded with pretty excuses and big worded alibis they are often befuddled.

The dominant feature of our WPA policy may be stated tersely thus: They are hired, voted, and then fired.

TEN-CENT CHRISTMAS STAR

It is only a ten-cent Christmas star
On top of a little tree . . .
And who would believe it would reach so far
As to touch infinity?

In the deep of the night the stars shine in
From the hilltop's sapphire brow.
And they catch the gleam of that piece of tin
On the topmost balsam bough.

For even a ten-cent Christmas star,
Mingled with love's fine leaven,
Can reflect for us all, poor though we are,
The quality of heaven!

GOV. LAFOLLETTE MANIPULATES

Gov. Philip F. LaFollette, who will go back to private life next January, makes a parting gesture to the new administration and thus to the people of Wisconsin.

Through the cooperation of his emergency board, he has made arrangements to reduce the general treasury balances to an extremely low level when he leaves office.

It is announced that, by action of the board, the state debt of $1,231,000, contracted in Civil war days and stationary for the last few years, will now be paid. It is also announced that $2,704,000 due to the teachers' retirement fund will be paid over to that fund at once, though there is no greater need for that payment now than there was when Mr. LaFollette took office two years ago.

There have been nearly $4,000,000 of withdrawals from the general fund. Another $2,300,000 of withdrawals is authorized for meeting the total of the "B" budget and some $400,000 is allotted for projects. And all that despite the fact that the general fund is more than $20,000,000 in arrears with its obligations to the highway department!

There can be only one reason for paying the state debt at this time—the disfigurement of the new administration. Payment of the teacher's retirement debt may be supposed to be also for the purpose of annoying incoming officials who have made a pledge of economy and tax reduction.

Again Philip F. LaFollette is playing politics with the people's money. He is setting an unfavorable financial stage for Mr. Hell, just as he set a favorable financial stage for himself when he succeeded Gov. Kohler.

Today the treasury is being reduced to harass the Republicans. Back in 1929 and 1930, it was being built up to be handed on to Mr. LaFollette, if he became governor in 1931, as he did. Mr. Damman, the Progressive secretary of state who is retiring with Mr. LaFollette in

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—Just when I had about decided this town was getting a little sense into its head, I discovered a fellow selling "ten dollar bills" at the rate of three for a nickel, and doing a nice business. By this time he may be in the hoosegow, such practices being frowned upon by the United States Secret Service. Still, I cannot get over the thought that people who pay out nickels so foolishly ought to be somewhere, too.

It was in a little elbow in the subway tunnel under Grand Central station. Standing against the wall, and with a large crowd of gaping citizens cluttered about was a giant negro. His coat was off, and there was the glint of the zealot in his eye and the timbre of earnestness in his voice as he harangued his audience.

"Last night," he cried, "my uncle died and left one billion dollars, all in ten dollar bills. Look!"

He flourished both hands, each clutching scores of "bills." Some of them fell to the floor at his feet, and he ignored them.

"A billion dollars in ten dollar bills!" He cried. "I ain't got no use for that kind of money. I want to get rid of them. You people gotta help me. Here! Step up and get them. Give me a nickel and I'll give you three of these nice new bills."

Don't think the boys and girls didn't go up. It wasn't a stampede, but it was brisk business. The "ten dollar bills" they were phoney, of course—phonies that looked good enough at a distance. They appeared to be photographic copies of bills on a paper not at all like that used by the Treasury Department. The fellow, wittingly or unwittingly, was violating the law, which is very severe in its zeal to protect American currency; but the man made his speech fast, sold his "bills" quickly, and was gone before anyone realized what was going on.

Your correspondent is now moved into the new Associated Press Building in Rockefeller Center, so if the columns henceforth seem to be awed, it will be because your correspondent is awed. Newspapersmen are not used to working in new buildings. They are rarely happy unless their desks are in a mess, their feet are knee deep in wastepaper, and the plaster is falling from the walls.

I anticipate much happiness in the new setting, a bit closer to Broadway, a bit closer to Central Park and a bit closer to my subway station. On the ground floor of the new building is a movie theatre which shows "selected short subjects." I am a great lover of selected short subjects. They fit my mind better than full length pictures.

I would be less than human, though, if I failed to shed a tear for dear old 383 Madison Avenue, under whose roof the AP boys dashed off more masterpieces of journalism than you could shake a stick at; masterpieces by anonymous geniuses and by others, like me, who were just plain anonymous.

I shall miss gazing out the window at the cabs drawing up before the marquee of the Hotels Roosevelt and Ritz-Carlton—cabs from which step fine ladies and gentlemen come to town from all over the world.

I shall miss the Irish elevator boys, the scowling cop on the corner, the traffic jam that must have made a nervous wreck of him every day of his life, the blind newsdealer, and the dignified doorman at Maillards.

Most of all, I shall miss the girls in Child's—especially Lillian, who always served the table reserved for me, who always was cheerful, who could be depended upon to lend us a quick two dollars if our need was great, and who knew the eccentricities of our appetites better than we knew them ourselves.

I'm afraid that no matter how far I wander from the old scenes, I'll be dropping back every once in a while just to get Lillian's ideas on world affairs, what horses look good at Jamaica, and maybe—in an emergency—a couple of dollars which I shall punctiliously repay on pay day.

Despite the vigorous opposition of Alderman William Vander Heyden, the common council the previous night authorized the mayor and city clerk to enter into a contract with the George A. Y.M.C.A. officials were making plans for an "open house" in the men's and boys' jobs of the association building on New Year's day. Athletic exhibitions were being arranged.

January, in the two years of Mr. Kohler's term levied state property taxes of $8,639,343 on the ground that they were needed to assure the meeting of appropriations. He made these levies despite the fact that Mr. Kohler's administration was convinced they were not needed. He made them because he then had the power to make levies.

Mr. Kohler left office with the general fund $6,446,224 richer than when he assumed office, solely because Mr. Damman overtaxed the people. In no time at all, Mr. LaFollette used up this $6,000,000. He did more than that—he reduced a treasury balance of $22,000,000 to $12,000,000 within 18 months, besides spending all the yield from increased state tax rates.

Back in 1930, the Progressives were rigging things to their advantage. Now, in 1938, the governor and his partisan emergency board are doing the reverse—they are putting the incoming administration in a financial hole.

That is the kind of politics which Wisconsin may well hope it will be rid of beginning next year. It is dirty politics, indeed.—Milwaukee Journal

DANGEROUS FARMING

Injuries, deaths are not uncommon as the power machines grow in popularity on the farm. To say that it is regrettable is small consolation to those who have themselves suffered, or who have lost loved ones. It is well worth while, however, to point out the dangers that others may heed. Railroad men are qualified to speak of safety first. Their program has cut the number of railroad worker accidents to a tenth the former volume. The worst danger of the farmer, is lack of respect. This respect has been gained by a long campaign of meetings, discussion, publicity. Farmers are at a disadvantage in that they are their own bosses in many cases and have no supervisor to enforce safety rules. It is obviously the duty of leaders in agriculture to undertake some safety first program in this machine age.—Athla (Ind.) Ledger-Tribune.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—When indignation over mistreatment of Jews is set aside, the cold fact stands out that Germany has not enough international money to allow Jews to leave with pockets full of gold and foreign exchange. That must come from other countries beforehand.

That is the view of competent financial authorities here who have as good information as is available outside of Germany as to the amount of foreign exchange which Germany can lay her hands on. This does not arise as an excuse for the German program of driving Jews out of Germany. But the purely financial difficulty of getting the Jews out of Germany will bear explaining.

Germany's latest maneuver is to propose tentatively that wealthy foreign Jews advance enough foreign exchange for German Jews to get a new start in life elsewhere. Germany's part of the program would be to repay the wealthy foreign Jews by shipping them German goods. German Jews, of course, would deliver a corresponding value in property or securities to the German government to complete the three-cornered trade.

Why Maneuver Is Necessary

Now why is such a complicated maneuver necessary?

Best sources here indicate there is not enough gold and foreign exchange available in Germany to permit German Jews to get out of the country with their wealth, even if the Reich turned over to them its whole hoard. And the Nazi government is not likely to deplete its "war chest" of gold and foreign exchange by letting Jewish refugees take it out of the country.

Here are figures on the situation. Last April Germany ordered Jews to register all their wealth. It was officially reported to total 6,000,000,000 reichmarks, or $3,200,000,000. A British publication, the London Banker, estimates that since then one billion marks of value has shrunk away and that two billion have passed into the hands of non-Jewish Germans. That leaves Jews owning 5,000,000,000 marks worth of goods, securities and real estate. In dollars that is $2,600,000,000.

Small Chance to Convert

Now if Jews were able to convert all this into German money at its face value they still would need to convert it into foreign exchange or gold as they left the country—and what chance is there for that?

To turn again to the London Banker, one of its writers estimates that after Anschluss with Austria, Germany and her citizens had 1,650,000,000 marks in gold and foreign exchange, 380,000,000 marks invested in foreign securities, and 1,450,000,000 invested in foreign property, all of which might conceivably be converted into foreign exchange. That totals 3,480,000,000 marks. Since the Anschluss this amount has dwindled by 130,000,000 marks, leaving about 3,350,000,000. That is described here as an outside figure. Other writers estimate less than half that.

Germany officially admits having only $29,000,000 in gold, although commercial sources here are certain the figure is simply a blind.

But the above figures compiled by financial writers show that even if Germany gathered in all its reported assets of $1,340,000,000 in foreign exchange, it could not supply Jews with the $2,600,000,000 required to give them their remaining wealth and let them go.

Another thing must be taken into consideration, however. Special welfare levies and fines imposed on Jews selling their property in Germany allow little of the true value. But getting foreign exchange even for 10 per cent presents a problem which financial experts here recognize as a real one.

Germany probably was not acting from purely humanitarian purposes in proposing that wealthy foreign Jews accept German goods in return for advances made to get German Jews out of the Reich. The plan has a double edge. Every such transaction would help to sell German goods abroad, even if the receipts were available only to buy Jewish property in the Reich.

If the device works, it probably will cause many a Nazi to chuckle at the queer irony by which Jews abroad would become unwilling customers of Germany as a means of rescuing their fellows.

GUINEA PIGS

If you have more than ordinary difficulty in seeing clearly in a dim light or at dusk or for a remarkably long time after entering a dark room from the bright sunshine, listen. If you are blinded more than other members of your family or more than your friends riding with you, by the headlights of approaching cars when you drive at night, pay heed. If you are more awkward when moving about your sleeping room at night than you should be, so that you bark your shin, stub your toe or crash odds and ends of furniture or bric-a-brac which have been placed in your path on purpose since you last passed that way, you swear, and how you swear, this article ought to interest you mildly. Oh, not that you need bestir yourself to do anything about it. But it may be something to think about if some time you reach a void and apparently still conscious—just on dead center. Lots of minds are caught that way when the radio breaks down. If you do believe you are a nystalgic, yet still wish to regain normal vision if possible, the information herein contained may show you the way. I don't know. In fact I am skeptical about the whole thing. But it is the latest word of science on the subject, and I am willing to suspend judgment on the point until, say, a thousand nightblind guinea pigs try it out and tell us whether there is anything in it.

Most impressive evidence in support of the conception of night blindness from vitamin A deficiency is that observation of Aykroyd's, which I have quoted here more than once (Vitamin and Other Dietary Essentials, by W. R. Aykroyd, M. D., Heinemann, Ltd., London).

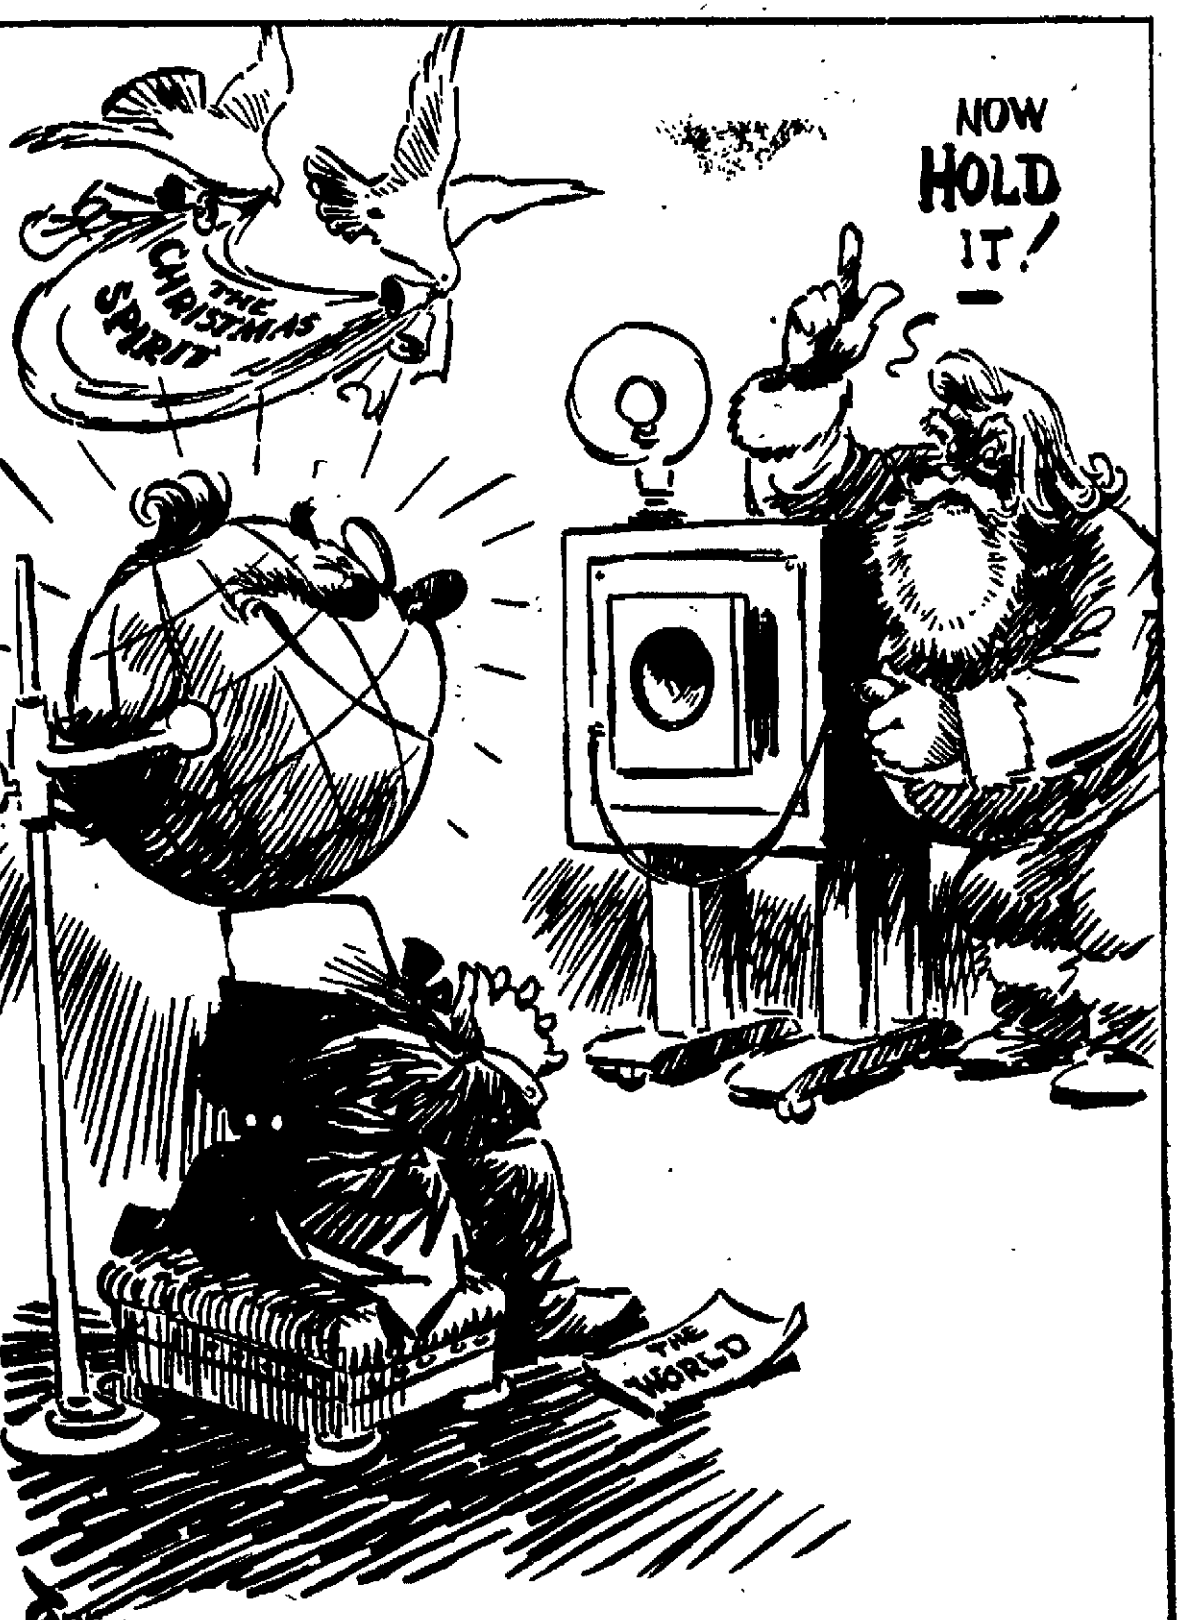

"The writer has sometimes given Newfoundland fishermen, victims of night-blindness, a single drop of cod-liver oil with the gratifying result that they were able to see on the subsequent night. There are, one fears, few other remedies in medicine so rapid and reliable."

Oh, I don't know. I have witnessed some amazingly prompt recoveries from disabling maladies when various modes of administering cod-liver oil were described inadvertently within hearing of little Johnny. Maybe those Newfoundland chaps were not exactly fond of fish-liver oil. But even if the remedy cured the night-blindness, it doesn't prove that vitamin A was the curative principle, for cod-liver oil contains also sunshine vitamin D.

That is the fault with practically all of the experimental as well as the empirical evidence relating to this question. How do the investigators reach the conclusion that vitamin A (or lack of it) is the essential factor, when sunshine vitamin D (or lack of it) is also concerned?

If a thousand readers of this who are subject to nystalgia, night blindness, difficulty of seeing in a dimly lighted room or in the dusk or on a dull cloudy day or against traffic glare, will test the thing by taking a capsule of 25,000 units of vitamin A and no vitamin D or anything else with it, morning, noon and night for a month—or three capsules daily at one dose if preferred—and report their experience, we ought to have a fairly good idea as to whether vitamin A has anything to do with night blindness. But remember, you are not doing this as a favor to me. I don't care whether you choose to remain blind or recover.

Coffee

I have found that a cup of black coffee for breakfast overcomes the most stubborn constipation. Can you tell me why it works? I don't take it regularly, as I have a nervous reaction later in the forenoon. (Mrs. H. F. N.)

Answer—Perhaps the result is the normalizing of autonomic functions by the good cheer or well being coffee gives. Drugs have no effect on the control of the peristalsis. It is controlled entirely by the "Giddap!" and the "Steady, there!" of Auerbach's and Meissner's plexus of the sympathetic nervous system in the intestinal wall.

Please give your opinion of a sterilizing operation on a man or a woman. (J. Y.)

Answer—On general principles I question whether it is ever justifiable.

Vitamin C

Is citric acid made of real lemons and does it contain vitamin C? Is there any substitute for cevitamic acid, which is too expensive for me to take in large quantities. (Mrs. N. M.)

Answer—It is commonly made from lime, lemon and bergamot juice. It is not vitamin C, and it contains no vitamin C (cevitamic acid, ascorbic acid). Commercial canned tomato-juice is an excellent and cheap source of vitamin C in seasons or places where citrus fruits are not available.

Wisconsin's Health

BY DR. C. A. HARPER
State Health Officer

This is the way it begins to look, if we can slow down the tempo, our leading death cause may show diminished tolls and our average life span may be further extended.

So far we've been extending our average life span in Wisconsin through control of certain communicable diseases, though all the while the speed menace brought on by mechanical developments has been increasing.

Our leading death cause is the combined group of heart diseases. Last year they caused one out of every four Wisconsin deaths. Few will deny that the speed mania, including speed at the dining table and general hurrying around, is a huge factor in heart fatalities.

Of course, it still seems inevitable that each must die sooner or later, and when you consider the phenomenal endurance of the heart that has brought its owner past middle-age without faltering, you'll probably agree that it well might be the first organ to fail.

Last year's heart deaths in the state were more numerous among men than women, and were slightly more of a hazard among city residents than among rural residents.

When a person past middle-age over-eats, he or she invites heart trouble. This is well illustrated by the careful estimate that when an adult is five pounds overweight it means that no less than three miles of tiny blood vessels have to be added to the circulatory system. Nature makes the alteration, but under protest, for the extra blood vessels place an abnormal burden on the heart.

Slow down, heavy eater—you have dangerous curves ahead.

The 1933 United States rice crop was estimated at 58,893,000 bushels, the largest ever harvested.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

For comparatively few dollars you can streamline your grandparents, giving them added years of life and new joy and zest for the limited years still allotted them on earth. Will any other investment produce greater dividends in happiness than the one mentioned today?

CASE M-104: Dorcas P., aged 61, is a grandmother.
"It seems to me that Mother has been failing rapidly the past year or so," her daughter told me.
"She used to be so active and peppy. Now she seems to be losing contact with her environment."
"She is fairly well off financially, but she will scarcely spend a penny on herself. She is generous enough with the grandchildren, but she hardly buys enough food to keep body and soul together."

"Dr. Crane, what would you advise, or is there no chance to change her?"
DIAGNOSIS:

It is typical of people to grow more cautious and frugal as they advance in years. Elderly people also become more and more introverted with each succeeding birthday.

Instead of having hundreds of social contacts, they gradually reach the place where they are shut off from life. They no longer have a job, or teach a Sunday class, or belong to a bridge club.

They have long since dropped out of other club work, and with increasing feebleness, they don't even attend church on Sunday, where they might still meet friends.

What is to be done to salvage our grandparents so they will be happier and more active?

Salvaging Our Grandparents

In the first place, make sure their eyes and ears and teeth are in the best possible shape. Don't permit any unnecessary shutters to blot out the beauty and enjoyment of this world.

If you want to give a unique type of birthday present, anniversary remembrance or Christmas gift to your parents or grandparents, get them a pair of glasses which are perfectly suited to their eyes.

Even wealthy old people will skip and save to such an extent that they will stumble around with eye glasses that no longer permit them to enjoy fully the color and beauty of nature. They have difficulty sewing or reading. And stumble down the stairs.

If they have cataracts, take them to the hospital and have the cataracts removed. Many of these blind people can read and sew with excellent success after the simple but delicate operation of removing the foggy lens called a cataract. This operation is not dangerous to life, it doesn't even require a general anesthetic.

Streamline Your Grandparents
If they are hard of hearing and feel aloof because they are not able to keep up with the conversation and gossip around them, see if you can't get them fitted with an artificial hearing device.

But test such devices thoroughly before you buy, for there are many different types of deafness, some of which benefit markedly and others but little or not at all from such hearing aids.

Then take them to your dentist, and see that they have a workable set of teeth. Our grandparents often have anemia owing to improper diet.

Lacking a good set of artificial teeth, they refuse raw vegetables and meats, confining themselves chiefly to mashed potatoes and gravy, coffee and rolls, even "dunking" the rolls to soften them.

Such a diet is often low in vitamins and proteins, though high in fats and carbohydrates. You cannot remain young and vigorous without eating the diet of youth. With good teeth your grandparents can live longer and be much happier. Make their declining years joyous.

Fathers Often Miss Chance to Take Place in Lives of Sons

Boys need fathers. Not that mothers are not essential, too, but fathers are particularly needed to supplement mothers, as soon as boys begin wearing trousers. Just as soon as a child knows that he is a boy, going to be a man, he needs his father. Father is a man, and between them is an understanding, an affection and a loyalty that is the flavor of life to both, once they have been tasted.

Fathers often miss their chance to take their places in the lives of their sons. "There mother is in charge of them." True enough, but it ought to be plain that parenthood is not one-sided. Father had his share in the makeup of this child. In him are the characteristics of his father and his father's people as well as those of his mother. The child will have an inheritance from his father which only his father can understand and accept. This is especially true in the boys. Boys are especially the charge of their fathers from the very first years.

It is not that fathers are needed for discipline. Mothers are good at that, and, as they are with the children most of the time, they have to be. It should never be necessary to call on father to be judge and executioner. His place is that of friend, companion, advisor and leader. He exerts authority only on extremity for his greatest function is that of friend.

Friends are good companions. If father will take the trouble to cultivate the acquaintance of his son, take him out for walks, visits to the interesting places, and talk to him as one man to another, from childhood on, he will establish one of the pleasantest, one of the happiest relationships on earth—father and son. If he ignores his son, leaves him to his mother and his teachers, expecting that some day, when the boy has some sense, that they will be firm friends and partners, he is headed for a great and lasting disappointment. Father-son relationships are established through years of understanding companionship, leadership by the older man, affectionate loyalty on the part of the younger one.

It is not possible for the father to take the young son to the places he goes to always. The child would not belong there. For years the interests of the two men are far apart, but because of the fundamental understanding and affection that exists between them, their interests gradually approach and merge and they go on together.

Boys need fathers, need them acutely. There is no sadder child in this world than the one who is parted from his father by divorce of his parents. The divorce may have been justified by all the laws of men, and women, but the injury to the child stands as an accusation against them for a lifetime. There is nobody to take a father's place in his son's heart. The boy is not able to tell his feelings. He cannot put them in words. But his bearing and his behavior tell their own story, and it is a sad one.

Surely it is not asking too much of a man that he father the boy he brought into the world? His mother does her share as a matter of course. Father can do no less, and he ought to do more. He ought to live along

Analysis of Bidding Is Aid in Play

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The question in the recent examination that brought the loudest "squawks" from the defeated gladiators was No 6, which was as follows:

Both sides vulnerable. East, the opponent on your right, deals and bids one spade. You, South, hold:

None ♠ K 10 8 6 ♠ A 7 5 3 ♣ Q J 9 2

What call do you make?

The official answer was that South should bid two diamonds, and there was a 14 point demerit for passing and a 12 point demerit for a double. The "doubtless" accepted my argument against their choice in unprotesting (or perhaps merely dignified) silence, but the "passers" were vociferous in their disapproval. Something like 800 disgruntled members of the Passers' club wrote to me demanding how I could justify a vulnerable overcall at the two level when South was so palpably short of the six winners required for such a bid under the Culbertson rule of two and three.

I answered them, and hereby answer publicly, as follows: I warned all readers at the very outset that questions would not be answered solely on the basis of the Culbertson system. Nevertheless and notwithstanding, since I am being attacked on the basis of the rule of two and three, I must point out that South's hand is only a small fraction of a playing trick short of the required 14 tricks for one of the side suits and one winner for the other, you are short precisely a plus value. On top of this there is the imponderable but important consideration of South's distribution. A hand divided 5-4-4-0 must be assigned greater potential value than the more prosaic distributions 5-3-2-2, 5-4-2-2, 5-4-3-1, etc. South should take some action, if only to initiate a possible sacrifice line of bidding, and the only logical action he can take is to overcall with two diamonds.

West opened the diamond device to his partner's second bid suit because he, West, had a high supporting honor. Declarer won and drew trumps in two leads, carefully noting that East, who had shown at least ten cards in the red suits, also had two spades. A low heart now was led. East won and returned a diamond, which declarer ruffed.

Another heart followed and another diamond ruff, followed by the ruff of South's last heart, stripped the North-South hands to the black suits.

Now, with the play in dummy, declarer had to consider the club situation. Obviously, he was home if he lost only one club trick, but on the bidding it was certain that clubs could not break 3-2.

Since East was marked with no more than a singleton club, declarer carefully led a low club away from the A K. He was perfectly willing for East to win this trick with an honor if he had it, since successive finessees could then be taken against West who was marked with an original holding of four clubs. As it happened, East had only the three spot, hence declarer was forced to put up the ten. West won with the jack, and since a red suit return would permit declarer to ruff in one hand while discarding in the other, returned the club nine. Dummy's king won and, when East showed out, declarer's previous caution was rewarded. Declarer entered his own hand with a trump and led a club toward the A-8. West, reduced to with his boy in friendly companionship. The boy has much need of him.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

I know, Christmas is only three days off and you still have a million things to do. You didn't get your shopping done early, and then one of the family had a cold and you were called upon to help with some local charity. I know, every woman gets into a similar jam just before the holiday. But what's happening to you in this hectic rush?

Take time out, my love, and give a good squint at yourself in the mirror. Don't you think a morning or afternoon at a beauty salon would do wonders to improve the woman you see? Just think of the glorious relaxation you could have while agile and cool fingers bring a fresh beauty to your countenance. What pay expression those two eyes will show when they are delightfully soothed and their frames plucked of unruly stragglers!

Treat yourself to a little beauty. Who wants to see you with your hair a mess and your expression so fatigued that you look like Scrooge himself? If you take time out today there are still two days before Saint Nick arrives, and having made yourself more lovely you will find your tasks the lighter. Many, many moments are wasted in bewildered, tired uncertainty. Take a good night's rest, after the beauty thrill, and your perspective on things will return with a bang! And you will get through your chores the more quickly!

If You Must, At Home

And if a salon visit is not within the scheme of things, take yourself in hand at home. It is not quite so relaxing but still it sets you up a peg or two.

Go through a good facial while your hair is drying from a stimulating shampoo. Give yourself a manicure and a pedicure just after a beautifully relaxing and scented bath, and slip into a comfortable robe or negligee for an hour or so before dressing. Be a little lavish with dusting powder and cologne, and a little daring in painting your fingers and toes a brighter shade!

When you come to setting your hair, fuss with it and do something different. Let the family exclaim over your primping and take their saucy remarks with a grain of salt. They like to see mother beautiful as much as mother does herself!

If Christmas is to be merry (and don't you want it to be?) embrace its dawning with a tranquil, nicely groomed beauty. After all, as mother, you are pretty important in the household and you should live up to that importance. How gratifying for those around you to have a Beauty receive their love offerings, rather than a tired out lady who wishes Christmas would never come!

After the rush you might need some "Slumber Inducing Exercises." A self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope will bring it to you.

Parents Have Little to Say About Children's Fiances

BY DOROTHY DIX

The question of how much parents should interfere with their children in the selection of their mates is one over which fathers and mothers, sons and daughters have fought ever since Cain and Abel went a-courting. Dad and Mom have felt that their superior wisdom and experience, and the fact that they were not blinded by passion, made them much better able to choose a suitable wife for John and a good husband for Mary than they could for themselves. John and Mary retorted that inasmuch as they were the ones who had to live with their wife and husband they had a right to do the picking.

Outwardly, in this day of emancipated youth, this is an academic discussion in which parents seldom have any way of enforcing their views. If all fathers has to look forward to is his old-age pension, he obviously can't keep John from marrying Myrtle by threatening to disinherit him. Nor can he terrorize Mary into marrying the rich old widower he has picked out for her husband by telling her that he will turn her out of house and home if she doesn't.

For Mary, who is self-supporting, would like nothing better than being able to set up her own little bachelor apartment.

But, while, on the face of it, it may not seem to matter to the cocksure youngsters who are head over heels in love, whether they have the parental blessing or not, or whether Mother and Father are going to receive the new daughter or son who has just been wished upon them with open arms or give them a welcome with icicles hanging on it, in reality it does make all the difference in the world.

Because family relationships do not end at the altar, and nothing else causes more heartbreak or more divorces than Mother not liking John's wife, or Father disapproving of Mary's husband. On the contrary, nothing does more to make marriage a grand sweet song than for in-laws to belong to the same class and sing harmoniously in the same key.

Of course, primarily marriage is the children's business. It is John who has to work his fingers to the bone if he marries a spender, or have his spirit crushed if he marries a nagger. It is Mary who has to fish a souge out of the gutter if she marries a drunkard, or takes in boarders to support a lazy loafer. But when these catastrophes occur it is not the children who suffer alone. The parents agonize with them.

When John's wife runs him in debt and Mary has to leave her good-for-nothing husband and come back home with the children, it is Father and Mother who have to pay the bill for their ill-advised marriages. So fathers and mothers DO have some right to a say in the marriages of their children because they have to underwrite them.

But the difficulty lies in how to do this, for it is true that the one who is undertaking to live with another person for forty or fifty years has a right to choose his companionship. It is also true that the success of a marriage depends not so much upon the intrinsic worth of the wife or husband as man and woman get, as upon him and her suiting the tastes of those who marry them. Unfortunately, parents seldom like the same dish in individual any more than they do in food.

West opened the diamond device to his partner's second bid suit because he, West, had a high supporting honor. Declarer won and drew trumps in two leads, carefully noting that East, who had shown at least ten cards in the red suits, also had two spades. A low heart now was led. East won and returned a diamond, which declarer ruffed.

Another heart followed and another diamond ruff, followed by the ruff of South's last heart, stripped the North-South hands to the black suits.

Now, with the play in dummy, declarer had to consider the club situation. Obviously, he was home if he lost only one club trick, but on the bidding it was certain that clubs could not break 3-2.

Since East was marked with no more than a singleton club, declarer carefully led a low club away from the A K. He was perfectly willing for East to win this trick with an honor if he had it, since successive finessees could then be taken against West who was marked with an original holding of four clubs. As it happened, East had only the three spot, hence declarer was forced to put up the ten. West won with the jack, and since a red suit return would permit declarer to ruff in one hand while discarding in the other, returned the club nine. Dummy's king won and, when East showed out, declarer's previous caution was rewarded. Declarer entered his own hand with a trump and led a club toward the A-8. West, reduced to

This is the best way to make your post-holiday turkey soup: Put the carcass, bones, skins and stuffing into a large kettle; add celery leaves, several onion slices, some cooked carrots, green beans or peas. Cover to a depth of six inches with boiling water. Simmer two hours or longer in a covered kettle, then strain through heavy sieve. Reheat and serve.

My Neighbor Says—

Red plants for Christmas are the order of the day. Try red begonias, red primulas, red cyclamens, and by all means the brilliant red poinsettias.

The poinsettia is one of the loveliest Christmas gifts when supplied in a richly colored pot, and tied with a ribbon and a sprig of holly.

Place your Christmas tree in a large piazza urn or bucket filled with sand. The sand keeps it in position and catches any small twigs that may drop from the tree.

Toasted nuts are very good served on ice cream sundaes, puddings or frozen desserts. Try toasted almonds or cashews with chocolate mint sauce on vanilla ice cream.

To toast nuts, sprinkle them in thin layer in shallow pan. Heat slowly and cook until nuts are light brown in color. Stir frequently with fork.

printed card, which has a very personal message printed just for my use and not a card that is stock number so and so, would be permissible to thank more than a hundred people who sent me cards and flowers and presents when I was sick in the hospital? None of the kindnesses have been acknowledged because I had no private nurse who could do it for me, and have only my father whose business keeps most of his time on the road travel, and who could not therefore write thank you notes for me. I'm still not very strong but I'm able to do a little writing each day. And now do you think, most of these people knowing the circumstances as they do, that it would be bad manners to say thank you by sending a printed card that is of my wording?

Answer: I think that if you add a few words in your personal handwriting on the card they would then do very nicely. But an engraved or printed card of thanks without any personal message of thanks added will not do at all except to send in return for cards.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is an invitation to become a patroness of a dance supposed to be answered?

Answer: It is if you want them to put your name on the list of patronesses. If they don't hear from you they can hardly take the liberty of using your name.

THE ARMY POST MURDERS

Chapter 27

Crushed By A Stone

"Do you suppose I care what you do with your second-hand typewriter?" I stormed. "But you didn't need to keep writing to me on it. Gave you a good excuse to run in and see her, didn't it? Did she lean over your shoulder and tell you what to say? Or did she take it down in shorthand and type it for your signature?"

There may have been more of it, but it must go unreported, all but my concluding remark, which was a prelude to action.

"Well, here's your secondhand ring! See who you can get to take that off your hands!"

And I flung it as hard as I could at his face. He ducked instinctively and the little yellow-gold circle, its one eye winking malevolently, sailed past him.

"That," he said furiously, "is about the lowest thing I ever knew a woman to do."

Something warned me to concede him the last word. I mustered shreds of control and, knees wobbling, effected a careless exit. Halfway down the stairs, I heard the door slam shatteringly.

Adam was standing in the downstairs hall, head bent, thinking deeply. The slam of the door roused him, but he overlooked its significance.

"Hullo! You're looking better. Do you mind waiting a minute longer? It's disgraceful to keep you out like this, but there's a sentry coming and I don't want to miss him."

"A sentry? Adam, there was one in front of the club. I forgot all about him!"

"That's the man—so did I. I've been cursing my feeble wits. Wonder what else I've overlooked? He's been relieved and he telephoned that he might have some information—about a car, he said. Do you want to wait in the car or would you like to listen?"

"I'll stay if you don't mind." "Stay, by all means. It will only take a moment—here he comes now."

He stepped forward to the open door. The soldier was young and fresh-faced—a country boy, by the look of him. He saluted snappily, stepped inside and took off his broad-brimmed campaign hat.

"It was about a car, sir," he began.

"Yes?"

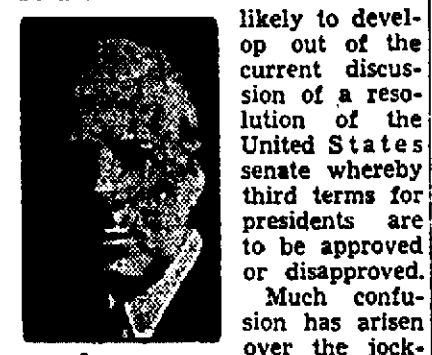

"I'd not like to make trouble for anybody," he said nervously. "Especially such a nice young lady. And I wouldn't want the major to think I was suggesting anything like that. Only it's just something I was in a way to see, and the major being in

Important Issue Lies Behind 3rd Term Resolution

Problem Is One of Honest Elections, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Something far more important to the future democracy of the United States than whether President Roosevelt shall or shall not be a candidate for a third term is likely to develop out of the current discussion of a resolution of the United States senate whereby third terms for presidents are to be approved or disapproved.

Lawrence

Much confusion has arisen over the jockeying of various members of the senate. Some of them who do not want to face the third term issue frankly say it is desirable for the senate to mind its own business and let the people decide the question. Others insist that the senate should express its self lest an important tradition be broken. It goes without saying that most all the Republicans will vote for the ban on third terms and many of the Democrats will feel embarrassed and finally will line up in accordance as their votes may effect their own political fortunes in 1940.

But the real issue is not whether
Mr. Roosevelt should have a third term. Anybody who wants to urge that there be written into the constitution a prohibition against third terms is free to do so, but, on the other hand, there is actually no legal or constitutional barrier against a third term. To adopt a resolution on the subject now, as in the past, is merely a means of expressing personal opposition to one man who may or may not be looking ambitiously toward a third nomination. Some of those who now are urging the third term taboo by resolution have hardly calculated what might be the effect if, by chance, the friends of Mr.
Roosevelt succeeded in lining up enough votes actually to defeat the resolution.

Might Be Help

Such a development would be hailed by the Roosevelt supporters as an indication that the senate approved of third terms and as a clear track for the third term nomination. Instead of being a hindrance, it might be really a help for the Roosevelt forces.

Any move which is aimed at one man or his own personal political future is bound to come a cropper in the long run. Anything which is based on principle is bound to be received with respect.

Thus, the true issue is not whether
Mr. Roosevelt shall have a third term, but whether any president of the United States shall be permitted directly or indirectly or through the activities of federal officeholders to be nominated to succeed himself. The passage of a law to cover this subject is clearly the business of the senate of the United States and the business of the house of representatives, too.

The most emphatic expression on this subject is that which came from the pen of Woodrow Wilson in February, 1913, when, as president-elect, he was asked by the majority leader of the house, the late A.
Mitchell Palmer, for his views on a proposal then being made to limit presidential tenure to a single term of six years. Mr. Wilson opposed the idea and suggested that the 2-term limitation of four years be written into the constitution. Speaking of the 6-year single term proposal, Mr. Wilson said:

"The argument for it rests upon temporary conditions which can easily be removed by law. Presidents, it is said, are effective for one-half of their term only because they devote their attention during the last two years of the term to building up the influences, and above all, the organization by which they hope and purpose to secure a second nomination and election.

Illicit Power

"It is their illicit power, not their legitimate influence with the country that the advocates of constitutional change profess to be afraid of, and I heartily sympathize with them. It is intolerable that any president should be permitted to determine who should succeed him —himself or another—by patronage or coercion, or by any sort of control of the machinery by which delegates to the nominating conventions are chosen."

Mr. Wilson recommended in vain a law for presidential primary elections and a plan to abolish nominating conventions. He wanted the people to make nominations by direct vote. As recently as the last session of congress, efforts were made to prohibit office-holders from sitting in the national conventions, but the senate killed the proposal. Likewise, the bills to forbid WPA activity in politics failed of passage.

So the real problem is whether congress will assure honest elections and a system of honest nominating so that the party in power will not be able to perpetuate its hold on government through a political oligarchy of any kind. Action by the senate forbidding governmental agencies to engage in politics either directly or indirectly or to have a voice in the selection of a president in a party convention touches more nearly the crux of the difficulty than a mere ban on third terms. For there are lots of people who cannot see much difference between senators who serve for three and four and even five terms, or governors of states who serve three

April, 1938: Reorganization Beaten; Phil Forms New Party

BY VOLTA TORREY
New York —(AP)—Late one gray, rainy April day, the Democratic House of Representatives delivered what Speaker Bankhead had warned would be a "lethal blow" to the Roosevelt administration. It voted, 204 to 196, against reorganizing the U. S. government.

During the dramatic debate beforehand, "Paul Revere" had galloped to Washington, and Rules Committee Chairman O'Connor, who fought the bill and later was "purged" from office, declared: "It is the biggest issue I have ever seen."

That same month the President, in his 12th fireside chat, sprang his $5,000,000,000 spending and lending assault on the recession.

The shape of things to come in the summer and autumn was becoming clear to perspicacious politicians. There was much said, meantime, of whether the vice-president had or hadn't advised
Mr. Roosevelt to "give the cattle (meaning business) a chance to fatten."

With Malice Toward Some

April's cables from Europe were portentous, too: Britain and Italy kissed and made up. Leon Blum as pukka sahib with virtually dictatorial authority in France. Konrad Henlein demanded independence for the Czechs for Sudeten Germans. And in Poland and Hungary, as well as Germany, there was yammering about Czech frontiers.

Through April's mud and blood, Spanish insurgents sloughed their way to the Mediterranean, severing Catalonia from the rest of the loyalists' land, and Caudillo Franco figured the war was nearly won.
In China, Japan took a licking at Taierchwang.

"Liberty in Europe is being murdered," a laborite lamented in London. "The prime minister is the undertaker, waiting to bury the corpse." But Commons refused, 359 to 152, to censure Mr. Chamberlain. Reichsfuehrer Hitler, meanwhile, let Germans, including ex-Austrians, vote for him—and was 99 per cent successful.

Babies in The News

Opening ball games drew record crowds. "Of Mice and Men" won the New York drama critics' prize. Women with strapless evening gowns combed their hair up instead of down and read "Fashion Is Spinach." Songs of social significance caught on. And the movie most in the news was "Birth of a Baby."

Mrs. Olivia Dionne had another baby: Yale Prof. Abraham White, 30, announced isolation from the pituitary gland of a pure protein crystal that causes the mother instinct. Jackie Coogan sued his mother and stepfather for $4,000-000. Albanian King Zog married a half-American Hungarian countess. Henry and Clara Ford celebrated their golden wedding. Dr.

Francis E. Townsend was excused by the President from 30 days in jail for contempt of congressmen.
Socially prominent Mrs. Weston G.
Frome and her daughter, Nancy, were found clubbed to death on a Texas highway.

Pickets And Progressives

NLRB ordered the previous summer's steel strikers reinstated.
Pickets collecting dues closed auto plants. Michigan's Gov. Frank Murphy sped home from Florida to settle a power strike. President Roosevelt put the railroad problem up to congress. And Wisconsin's Gov. Phil La Follette unfurled a banner with a strange device—an "X" inside a circle—in the hope of rallying progressives together under it.

Birds came north. Su Lin, baby panda in the Chicago zoo, died.
And Gargantua, a big ape in the circus, became American Animal
No. 1.

Finds Chlorophyll Helps to Stimulate Sex Development

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

Bloomington, Ind. — (AP)—The green coloring pigment of plants, chlorophyll, helps to stimulate sex development.

Discovery of this effect was announced today at Indiana university. The work was done on chicks and rats, but the results have practical human applications.

For one thing, the discovery should result in reduced expense for some medicines. For the green pigment may be combined with pituitary extracts and used to remedy under-developed sex in human beings.

Pituitary extract costs around $50 a pound. But adding chlorophyll, it is predicted the dosage of this extra can be cut to one-seventh and four terms, and the presidency.

What is more important is how a third nomination or election is obtained by the man who happens to be in control of the governmental machinery. It's a broader question than one man's political opportunity or ambition.

in volume. Chlorophyll is plentiful and cheap.

The Indiana experiments were made by Dr. W. R. Breneman, assistant professor of zoology, in the Watson institute. Pituitary extract is obtained from the pituitary gland, a small organ at the base of the brain. The pituitary is one of the ductless organs, sometimes called personality glands.

In studying the effects of pituitary extract Dr. Breneman got the idea of trying the green pigment from experiments at the University of Wisconsin. At that place, haemin, a form of iron in the body, was added to the extract. It greatly increased the rate of sexual development in some animals.

Or Breneman tried several other chemicals as boosters for the pituitary extract and discovered that the most remarkable effects came from addition of green chlorophyll.
It increased the rate of sexual development by six times in some female rats.
Plant growth hormones, the chemicals discovered by agricultural chemists to speed plant growth, also showed some influence on sex when added to the pituitary extract. They doubled the extract's effectiveness.

Scientists do not conclude that either the green pigment or the growth hormones can be substituted for pituitary extract. They suspect that these vegetable substances merely serve to increase the effectiveness of the glandular preparations.

Ottawa, Kans., city of 10,000 people, has had no fatal traffic accidents since July 26, 1936.

FRUIT OF MANY USES
Here are some good uses for lemons: Rub match scratches on paint with cut side of a lemon and rinse quickly with cold water applied on a cloth. Use half of a lemon peel dipped in salt to remove stains from copper and brass. Wash in warm water and soap suds and polish with soft cloth. To bleach linens yellowed by age, boil them in six cups of water, two tablespoons of bluing and half a lemon. To keep wooden sink drain boards clean, rub them often with half a lemon rind.
To remove thin brown skin covering from nut meats, cover the meats with boiling water and let them stand five minutes in a covered dish. Drain and then quickly rub off the skins with the fingers. A small sharp knife may be needed on Brazil nuts.

At 7:30 Friday evening there will be Christmas entertainment and a tree at the church.

Masses at Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic church, Hortonville, will be at midnight and at 8 o'clock Sunday morning; at St. Joseph's Mission, Dale, Mass will be celebrated at 9:30 Sunday morning.

Mrs. Alta Hough, Hortonville, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thorpe, for two children, Algoma, left Tuesday afternoon on a motor trip to Florida. They expect to be gone two weeks.

A novel holiday cookie is made by shaping light sugar cookie dough into wreaths with a doughnut cutter. When baked, and cooled, spread with thin layer of creamy frosting. Decorate with tiny candies in assorted colors and with strips of citron and angelica. For a "holly" wreath cut small leaves from citron and use red cinnamon candies for the berries. You can fashion a bow from strips of candied red cherries.

Mrs. Duncan Asks LaFollette To Pardon Mate; Prosecutor Opposes Petition at Hearing

Yale, was returning to Wisconsin for the holidays and could not be here.

District Attorney Steffes discussed the trial record and the dispute over the fourth degree manslaughter sentences after Duncan had been found guilty of first degree manslaughter. He reminded the governor that Duncan had driven 31 miles after hitting three automobiles.

Letter From Physician Steffes introduced a letter from Dr. L. W. Ramlow, physician at the house of correction, stating that Duncan's condition had improved definitely since his commitment and the present diagnosis is that he is subject to "benign hypertension." The letter said he had required no medical treatment since entering the institution.

Steffes declared Judge Risjord had taken full account of Duncan's "unblemished record" at the time of the trial but also had considered that over-indulgence at the time of the accident was responsible for his loss of control of his automobile.

The allegation that proper consideration for parole would not be given when Duncan becomes eligible was described by Steffes as an "unwarranted prejudgment of the attitude of the parole authorities." At the conclusion of the hearing, Governor LaFollette said:

"I am sure that Mr. Steffes and Mrs. Duncan and all concerned appreciate in a case of this kind, it is important to discharge the duties resting in the executive under the constitution with justice to the law, as well as to the individual concerned."

"Not Easy Case" "For obvious reasons it is not an easy case. I am certain that the one thing I must bear in mind, on the one hand, is, not to take into consideration any personal feeling I may have, and on the other hand, it is equally true, that a person who has had a position of political prominence should receive the same consideration anyone else receives."

The governor remarked that a large attendance of press representatives and the fact that the district attorney of Milwaukee—for the first time in his knowledge—appeared at a pardon hearing, "indicated the importance of the case."

"I shall do my very best to decide this matter justly," he said. The governor refused any comment after the hearing as to when he will act. Since he leaves office Jan. 2 he must make up his mind within the next 11 days.

Asks Hearing on Rate Increases

Transportation Chief Fights Proposed Hike on Paper Products Freight

Madison—(U)—Philip H. Porter, public service commission transportation director, petitioned the interstate commerce commission today for a hearing on proposed freight rate increases on shipments of paper products to the southwest.

Railroads have filed notice of increases of from 1 to 20 cents per 100 pounds to go into effect Jan. 1. Wisconsin industrial groups have filed protests.

"The manufacture of paper products upon which new rates are to apply is one of the most important industries in Wisconsin and one of vital concern to the state," Porter said. "Important markets of this industry are located in southwestern states."

"Wisconsin mills in marketing their products in the southwest are in keen and active competition with mills in New England and on the Pacific coast. No corresponding changes in freight rates are proposed for such competitors. Moreover, a source of competition of growing importance is located in the southwest itself and in the lower Mississippi valley and increases in rates from Wisconsin are especially serious because of this local production."

Porter and W. F. Ehmman, tariffs department head, will represent the state if a hearing is granted.

Winter Wheat to Be Under 1938

Government Forecast Indicates Relief of Bread Grain Surpluses

Washington—(U)—Federal farm officials said today a government forecast of a 485,000,000 bushel winter wheat crop next year promised to relieve to some extent the present problem of bread grain surpluses.

Such a crop, if borne out by the harvest and if accompanied by a spring wheat crop of no more than 175,000,000 bushels, would result in a total production next year of about 660,000,000 bushels, or about 201,000,000 below this year's bumper crop, and about 90,000,000 short of a normal year's domestic and export needs.

A crop of that size added to an expected surplus of 300,000,000 bushels would give a total supply next year of 960,000,000 which in all likelihood, officials said, would eliminate the necessity of invoking strict marketing control provisions of the farm law.

The federal crop reporting board estimated that farmers had sown 46,173,000 acres to winter wheat, a reduction of about 18 per cent from last year's 56,355,000.

This compared with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's planting program of 39,000,000 acres. The crop board said, however, that because of drought conditions in the great plains region between 8,000,000 and 11,000,000 acres might be abandoned.

Scout Is Hero in Rescue of Youth Who Fell Through Ice

Irvin Meidam, 17-year-old Clintonville boy scout, may get national recognition for his recent rescue of a companion who fell through the ice of Pigeon river.

Walter Dixon, valley scout executive, said today his office will file application with the national court of honor of boy scouts, citing Meidam's feat as worthy of a certificate of heroism or a life saving medal, the latter the highest award of this type made by Boy Scouts of America.

Meidam is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Meidam, 71 Tenth street, Clintonville, and a member of Troop 24 of that city.

One afternoon recently the two boys went up the Pigeon river for a hike. Returning about 4:30, they started to cross the channel about two blocks above the dam where the water is deep and swift moving. Both boys broke through the ice.

Meidam was able to crawl out of opening onto firmer ice. When he regained his footing, he saw Klitz swimming frantically around underneath the ice farther downstream. Meidam battered his way through the ice at that point and pulled Klitz out. The force of the current made it impossible for Klitz to return to the opening through which he fell and Meidam's feat in breaking through the surface a second time entailed considerable danger.

Meidam is a "life scout," having passed a number of tests beyond the rank of a first-class scout. He is active in the affairs of Troop 24, sponsored by the American Legion post. The Klitz youth does not belong to a scout organization. Meidam received his safety merit badge only a week before his successful rescue.

Board Seeks Bids On Construction, Remodeling Jobs

Council to Meet Friday Night to Consider Contractors' Offers

Bids on the remodeling of Lincoln school and the construction of a new police station will be opened by the board of public works at 2:30 Friday afternoon in city hall.

The city council last night adjourned to 7:30 Friday night so that contracts may be awarded, if they are to be awarded, before Christmas. There is need for haste if the city is to take advantage of the PWA money offered for the projects because the jobs must be started before Jan. 1 according to federal regulations.

Plans for the two projects call for an expenditure of about $90,000 of which the PWA will pay $41,000 while the city will pay the remainder. The projects were drawn up early in the year but the application for PWA money was delayed until Sept. 23. Getting the plans ready for PWA and the industrial bids has taken up the time since the grant was approved.

If the council awards contracts the city will build an entirely new building, to be situated on the southeast corner of the Lincoln school property, which will be used as a police station. The main part of the structure will be two stories high with a basement beneath and will be 40 by 46 feet in size. A garage for police cars and motorcycles connected to the rear of the station will be 30 by 73 feet and will be only one story.

Remodeling plans include offices for all city officials, a committee room for the council, a council chamber, space for the relief department in the basement, storage space in the attic and two large unassigned rooms, which may be used by the Wisconsin State Employment Service.

The board will meet again at 10 o'clock Saturday morning to take bids on a garage and store room to be built at the sewage treatment plant. Cost of the structure is estimated at about $11,000 with the PWA paying $4,963 of the cost.

Farmer Offers Ton Of Squash To Join Good Fellows Club

A young farmer with a heart of gold and a real Christmas spirit walked into the Post-Crescent editorial rooms this morning and offered to join the Good Fellows club with a ton of squash.

He is Harvey Schmidt, who works on his brother's farm at Dale. The staff man in charge of the fund told Schmidt the club had no facilities to distribute a ton of squash and suggested that he try the Outagamie Public Welfare department when he insisted he wanted to give the squash to the poor.

"Things aren't so good on the farm that we don't know it must be awful tough on city folks who haven't even enough to eat when Christmas rolls around," the young farmer said.

Generals Fish and Immell are Given New Assignments

Former Made Major General in Charge of 32nd Division

Madison—(AP)—Promotion of Brigadier General Irving A. Fish, Milwaukee, to the rank of major general and the assignment of Adjutant General Ralph M. Immell as brigadier general of the line was announced at the adjutant general's office here today.

General Fish, an attorney, who has been commanding the 57th Field Artillery brigade, will take charge of the 32nd division, consisting of troops of Michigan and Wisconsin. He succeeds the late Major General Guy M. Wilson, Michigan.

Under his new commission as brigadier general, Immell will take command of the 53rd Cavalry brigade, consisting of troops of Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois. He took an examination for the federal commission before a board of general officers in Chicago last Monday.

General Fish appeared yesterday at Chicago before a military board consisting of general officers from the national guard of the United States and the regular army, appointed by order of the secretary of war. His selection was made by agreement between Wisconsin and Michigan.

Officials of Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois approved General Immell's appointment to command the cavalry brigade which is tentatively a part of the 23rd Cavalry division, consisting of troops from Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana in addition to those of the three northern states.

General Immell will continue to serve in his lifetime post of adjutant general of Wisconsin. It is not unusual for an adjutant general to serve in a dual capacity, his office said.

Bert McCann, 59, route 1, Kaukauna, pleaded not guilty of drunken driving when arraigned in municipal court yesterday afternoon following a traffic accident in which his wife was injured. Trial was set for 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning.

McCann was going west on County Trunk S about 10 miles north of Appleton and Ray Casey, 27, Stevensville, was going east when their machines collided about 2:30 yesterday afternoon. Mrs. McCann was cut and bruised when thrown from the car by the impact, according to Ronald Decker, county traffic officer, who investigated.

Juniors Present Variety Of Acts in Talent Program

Entertainment in the modern manner was the Christmas gift of the junior class of Appleton High school to the student body Wednesday afternoon in the auditorium. The variety show was composed of 12 acts.

Jay Main was not only the affable master of ceremonies but he also sang his original lyric, "You Are My One and Only," accompanied by Lois Sieth at the piano. The show was opened by the Collegiate, a dance band led by David Bliss. Robert Dettman, Olin Mead, Robert Sager, Robert Wilch and John Boon played the instruments.

Eunice Kraemer, an accordionist, offered the "12th Street Rag" and "St. Louis Blues." Philip Weise sat on the knee of Ralph "Edgar Bergen" Jung and wisecracked in true Charley McCarthy fashion. Caroline Koester swung out on the "Pagan Love Song" and "The Waltz You Saved for Me" on her piano accordion.

In the Ruth Etting manner Ellen Van Rooy offered the favorite "Star Dust," accompanied by Noranna Trauba. Geraldine Schaefer won plaudits with her piano solo, "The Gypsy." Throaty voiced Geraldine Umlaud sang "Heart and Soul."

Elrow Krueger offered "Neapolitan Nights" and the "Tiger Rag" on his piano-accordion. Howard Mans followed the Bing Crosby style of crooning when he sang "While My Cigarette is Burning" and "My Reverie." To the tune of "The Lady in Red" Cecelia Speel did a Spanish castanet dance in costume. A tumbling act coached by W. C. Pickett, physical education instructor, closed the talent show.

The show was the second in a series planned by classes at the high school. The sophomores assembled their vaudeville acts a month ago and the seniors will present their show some time next semester.

To communicate with the enemy," it added that British authorities were giving the Burgos government all possible assistance in the investigation.

London informants said Goodman had been absolved of guilt in the affair, but that several employees of British consulates in insurgent territory were "under suspicion."

Several Spanish nationals are employed in British consular offices in Spain, but it was not known here whether all those arrested were Spanish.

Officials in London explained that Goodman was carrying an "official bag" but not a "diplomatic bag," which would have been immune from search.

British officials have conveyed their regrets to insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco concerning the affair.

It was said the "dirty shirt" itself might prove to be a vital clue in the biggest espionage conspiracy of the Spanish war. British and Spanish insurgent officials are trying to determine whose shirt it was and who placed it and incriminating papers in Goodman's bag.

will be as much thrilled by the rebuilt playthings as was the original owner.

Many of the baskets also will contain mittens, scarves, sweaters, stockings and other articles of clothing, most of it provided from sources other than Good Fellows. A huge amount of preliminary work was necessary to determine the needs of each individual family so there would be a maximum amount of service to them.

A great deal of work and time also was involved in making the purchases. Relief agency buyers are pretty keen shoppers and drove hard bargains with merchants for the necessary supplies. Some of the commodities, like candy, were purchased at wholesale and distributed to the various agencies because a substantial amount of money could be saved that way—and every penny of the savings will go to the poor. The whole job is being done without a single cent of charge for overhead.

There still are lots and lots of people in Appleton financially able to be Good Fellows this Christmas time. Ten years ago, in 1928, when there was only a fraction of the need for help, there were four times as many Good Fellows as this year, and contributions totalled $1,144.55. True, there was no federal and state government relief in those days; neither were there as many people in need of help then.

Those Appleton men and women who have survived the trying days since 1928, and still are able to enjoy some of the ordinary nice things of life, could show an appreciation for their good luck by doing a little to help those who weren't so lucky. Many of the families requiring help today were Good Fellow contributors ten years ago. How happy they would be if they could afford to help again this year!

There still is time to send your check or cash to the Good Fellows club, care of the Appleton Post-Crescent.

criticized acceptance of German decorations by Henry Ford and Charles A. Lindbergh.

Welles said in talking to Thomson that this criticism of Ford and Lindbergh was a purely domestic question in which Germany could have no concern whatever and which he would not discuss.

And, Welles added, so long as attacks against American officials continued in Germany the German government had no right to suppose that attacks of the same character would not continue in the United States.

The exchange brought an extremely sharp new strain on German-American relations already tense from the recent withdrawal of ambassadors of both countries and Germany's response to increasingly insistent American notes. The state department considered the latter unsatisfactory.

Thomson had told Welles he trusted the government of the United States would make public an official expression of regret for Ickes' statement. This Welles flatly refused to do.

The acting secretary replied that for several months he had closely followed the German press and had rarely read more unjustifiable criticism or open attack on members of another government than had been made therein. Welles mentioned recent attacks on President Roosevelt and members of the cabinet. He bluntly said he was sure the German charge d'affaires could hardly dispute that the German press was completely under the influence and dictation of the German government.

Welles said that so long as attacks of this kind persisted, unquestionably authorized by German authorities, he could not conceive of there being any propriety in a German protest of Ickes' speech.

Thomson interrupted to remark that he didn't consider criticisms published in the German press were on a par with criticism made by a member of the United States cabinet.

Welles then stated that within the last few months he had read remarks made by German government officials derogatory to the late President Wilson. He said Thomson must surely realize that while Wilson was dead his memory was revered by the American people and such attacks had been deeply resented here.

The inquiry was ended after Welles gave his personal belief that public recriminations in any country against another country were not conducive to good relations between peoples of the world.

Ickes left it up to the state department to answer the German protest against his speech.

"heils," the secretary replied "and a merry Christmas to you."

In answer to a question he said that for diplomatic reasons he could not discuss charges made in German newspapers in view of the formal protest to the state department.

"The matter now is in the hands of the very able state department," the secretary said "and I must not say anything until it makes a reply to the nazi government."

Berlin—(AP)—A strong German protest over a speech by Harold I. Ickes, secretary of the interior, attacking dictators was submitted to the acting secretary of state by the German charge d'affaires in Washington. It was learned today in foreign office circles.

These quarters said Germany regarded Ickes' statement as "impudent and insulting."

Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' newspaper Der Angriff accused Mr. Ickes yesterday of seeking war and said:

"Instead of keeping order in his own land, he conducts anti-German agitation which is aimed at nothing else than war. Ickes is frankly the evil spirit in American policy. If it is now represented in Washington that Ickes spoke as a private person, we must ask: What shall we think of a democracy in which a minister never is in agreement with the chief of state?"

Secretary Ickes, speaking Sunday before the Zionist society of Cleveland, said anti-Jewish violence in Germany took Germany back to the period of history "when man was unlettered, benighted and bestial."

He criticized Americans, particularly Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Henry Ford, for accepting German decorations and said:

"How can they pretend that in accepting the shabby baubles of a dictator they are honoring the great people whom the dictator has victimized and degraded?"

FLOWERS for CHRISTMAS, of Course!

Wear Holly for Holidays

A sprig of holly on the lapel or the hat lends a real holiday effect. For a round of calls or a day of shopping nothing is more appropriate, and a well arranged corsage will last several days in contrast with more fragile flowers, which last but a day or so, and of course, cannot be worn at all during freezing weather.

The bright red berries and shiny greens of the holly of the corsage in the illustration contrast well with the dark outfit, and the tiny matching clip for the hat makes the ensemble doubly attractive.

While much of our Christmas holly comes from the southern states where the trees are common in many sections, new types are now shown in the Pacific northwest, on large holly ranches where berries and branches are grown and shipped to all parts of the country.

The sprays of holly with their thick glossy leaves of dark green and brilliant scarlet berries radiate cheer and good will wherever they are used. When December skies are gray and holiday crowds are scurrying about it is refreshing to see sprays of holly being worn by young ladies on their street clothes.

Candles and Flowers Make Intimate Atmosphere

The Soft Light and Warm Colors Are Flattering to Those About the Table. They Come in Pottery and Glass.

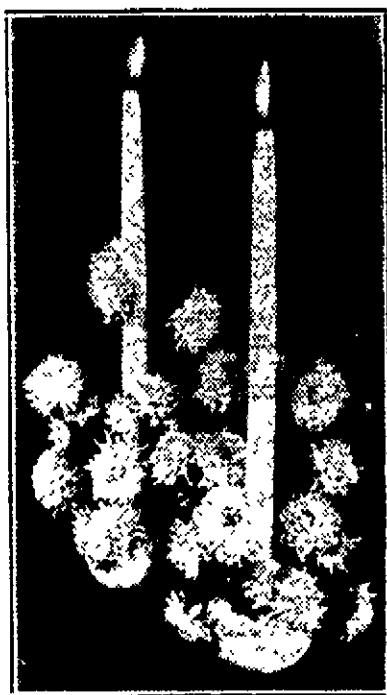

The cheering glow of candle light and the soft colors of fresh flowers give that warm feeling of hospitality to the dinner table which is so necessary for the successful dinner party. Whether your flowers are roses, orchids, dainty sweet peas or the most inexpensive blossoms from the little flower shop around the corner, they will be beautiful.

As a special help for the hostess who plans to use flowers with candles there are a number of dual purpose flower containers and candle holders available. These come in various colors and sizes in both pottery and glass.

Some of the smaller pottery holders are delightful for the center of the table when grouped close together in pairs as shown in the illustration where small white pompon chrysanthemums were used with white candles. Sweet peas in any of their myriad of hues and tones are also especially lovely with candles.

For a longer table a pair of these small arrangements may be placed at each end of the table with a larger centerpiece of the same flowers arranged in a low bowl.

Since both the flowers and candles come in so many different colors any desired color scheme may be worked out. Remember, however, that candle light is yellowish and tends to intensify yellows and scarlets while dulling blues and lavenders as well as greens. While it mellows the whiteness of the linen it adds sparkle to the silver and is flattering to the faces of those about the table.

These Candlesticks Are Flower Holders, Too.

Protect Plants; Here Are Tips

Heat and dryness are dangerous to growing plants, and cut flowers as well. We should minimize them as much as possible. In the case of heat, it will usually be found that there is a corner of the room which is cooler than others. While the temperature might be 80 degrees near a radiator, it could be 60 degrees near an inside door where circulation of air is present. Make a test with a thermometer, and if you must have plants in a very warm situation, choose the green types which will withstand almost anything, like the sanseveria and the philodendron.

Dryness should be remedied not only for the sake of your plants, but for yourself as well. You will find that if the air is healthful for you, it will also be healthful for them.

Water the plants more often, especially in a dry atmosphere, which will soak up moisture from the soil in a remarkably short time. If you will observe for a few days just how much water is needed, you can set a schedule which will cause you a minimum of bother.

Drafts are as harmful to plants as to humans, and plants will not so easily survive them when once affected. If they must be kept in an airy window situation, accustom them to it gradually, as you would the seedlings you start indoors in the springs. As a general rule, flowering plants are more affected by drafts than vine or other green plants.

Few pests or diseases should bother, which a light and easily accomplished dusting will not take care of. Sulphur is the remedy for mildew, and other dusting powders can be obtained to get rid of mealybug or other pests in short order and with one application.

Good taste and imagination can accomplish striking results with ordinary materials. This is as true of flowers and their use as it is of a lady's wardrobe and her myriad beauty preparations. We are accustomed to the lovely colors and fragrance of roses the year around; they are as familiar to us in June as December, but to appreciate them most, we should display them in harmony with the season. Here is an idea for the winter social season which suggests the snow and the holiday festivities.

The illustration shows an arrangement in a globe shaped bowl covered with cotton to simulate a snowball. This novel effect is given a special holiday note by the spray of natural holly leaves and scarlet berries.

The rose is without question the best loved flower in America. Every year new varieties of more beautiful colors, lovelier forms, and better keeping qualities are being produced by horticulturists who specialize in this queen of flowers.

Since roses are so popular as gift flowers as well as for making our homes more attractive when we entertain we should know how to arrange them for best effect and so that they will last longer for greater enjoyment.

Arrange roses loosely and naturally in a container of ample size to hold plenty of water. A metal holder in the container is useful to making the roses stay in right positions. Cut some of the stems shorter than others to give variety and added interest to the arrangement.

Since very warm air and drafts are enemies of cut flowers, because they take up moisture from the tender petals, keep them in as cool a place as possible and away from drafts. Fill the container with fresh water each morning after cutting back the stems half an inch or so with a sharp knife.

Neenah—William Wyce, route 1, Neenah, was fined $100 and costs when he changed his plea of not guilty to guilty of drunken driving when he appeared before Justice of the Peace Gaylord C. Loehning Wednesday afternoon.

The defendant was arrested by Neenah police at 4:30 Sunday afternoon on S. Commercial street. When arraigned before Justice Loehning Monday morning, Wyce pleaded not guilty and trial was set for yesterday afternoon.

Lions Raise $100 to Buy Milk for Children

Neenah—The Neenah Lions club Wednesday turned over a check amounting to $100 to Miss L. Evelyn Scholl, city and school nurse, for milk for undernourished Neenah children. Miss Scholl received the check in behalf of the board of health.

Last year, the club gave a check for $75 for the milk fund. Part of this money was raised by the club through its milk fund campaign and the rest through the production of a movie, "See Yourself and Your Town in the Movies," which was produced here last summer.

St. Patrick Cagers to Meet Appleton Graders

Menasha—The St. Patrick grade school basketball team will play a Catholic boy conference game Friday afternoon at S. A. Cook armory against St. Mary's team of Appleton. The game originally was scheduled for March 31, 1939, but was advanced to the vacation period. The Shamrocks have won their last two starts.

Girls Show Rapid Progress in Twin City Firms Close Christmas

Menasha—Children of Menasha soon will be "swimming like fish" if the results of the improvement and advancement made by Menasha High school girls in the swimming pool under the direction of Miss Marijane Jex, physical education instructor, is any indication.

Careful records have been kept of the 215 girls participating in the twice a week classes of the swimming branch of the physical education program. Of that group 30 per cent began the school year with the ability to take care of themselves in water over their own depth.

At the end of 7 weeks of class instruction, 20 per cent more girls were swimming in deep water, 48 per cent of the girls had acquired sufficient swimming skill to take care of themselves in the water and swim distances of from 30 to 75 feet. The other 2 per cent, four girls, are still in the more primary stages of learning to swim.

The girls' swimming classes at Menasha High school include two groups of 60, one group of 42 and one group of 48. In teaching swimming of groups of that size each class is divided into groups according to swimming ability.

In the first group are those who cannot swim more than 30 feet; in the second group are those who have enough skill and endurance to master the technique of one stroke well enough to swim 60 feet. Group 3 consists of those who are accustomed to deep water swimming and can swim 120 feet as a minimum. The fourth group includes the most advanced students who can do several strokes in fairly good form and who have learned surface diving and other water skills.

Each of the groups is given 15 minutes of individual instruction each week with the other 45 minutes of actual swimming being devoted to practice for each girl with the help given to her by a partner, Miss Jex explained.

In addition a list of helpful hints and instructions is posted for each group. The instructions are changed at each class period and are posted in the pool room. Each girl is responsible for observing these instructions at each class period and for assisting her partner in conquering weak points and acquiring more skill in certain swimming techniques.

In a community which offers so much in swimming opportunities during the summer months, many persons feel that a swimming pool program during the school year could be omitted. But from the safety viewpoint, such a program must receive the utmost attention from everyone, Miss Jex pointed out. An intelligent respect for water and its dangers should be developed so that persons can adapt themselves to the water and can meet situations dealing with water safety and accidents, she said.

"Swimming can become as natural as a phenomenon to every individual as walking or running," according to the instructor. "Fear is one of the main elements that stands in the way of every person who is a beginner learning to swim. To overcome this natural instinct is a battle half won."

The classes this first year are based on a "learn to swim" drive. Later other fields such as certified life saving work and more extensive forms of meets, games and competition will be open.

Gannett Protests President's Remark as 'Unfair Reflection'

Rochester, N. Y. —(AP)—Frank E. Gannett, Rochester publisher, protested today to President Roosevelt for what he termed "an unfair reflection" that "newspapers are edited in the counting room."

In an open letter, Gannett answered a recent statement by the president in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in which Mr. Roosevelt said: "I have always been firmly persuaded that our newspapers cannot be edited in the interests of the general public from the counting room."

"Anyone familiar with newspapers," Gannett said, "knows full well that any paper edited from the counting room would be doomed to failure. No one is more sure of that than the publishers themselves."

Asserting that he wrote his "open letter" at the request of the Post-Dispatch, Gannett continued: "Of course a newspaper to be independent, fearless and in position to render maximum service to its readers and to its community, must be strong financially. There must be business efficiency in the management of the publication. But that cannot mean, by any stretch of imagination, that the editorial policy shall be dictated by the business office."

Gannett said that a generation ago, "when newspapers were weak financially and living from hand to mouth, all sorts of subsidies were accepted to keep the paper going."

"In my lifetime," he continued, "I have seen a remarkable change from such influence of the counting room to a freedom from such influence which has become practically universal among newspapers in the country."

Simple Precautions Can Avert Majority of Holiday Mishaps

Madison — "Thousands of accidents will occur during the holidays unless care is taken to eliminate their possibility. Fortunately, it is not difficult to exercise this care. Preventing accidents requires only forethought and a little knowledge of how accidents occur. The prevention of them at Christmas time is a problem to be solved mainly but not entirely by the mother and father of the family, according to the weekly bulletin of the state medical society.

"Fire is perhaps the greatest single hazard with which the average family has to contend during the Christmas season. Too many happy celebrations end in tragedy. An analysis of the causes of 245 Christmas fires yielded the following statistics: Christmas tree fires caused by smoking and carelessness with matches—104; candles on Christmas trees—89; short circuits and defective wiring—62; electrical toys, defective wiring—6; candles as decorations other than on trees—4.

List Safeguards

"It would seem that the exercise of ordinary care and common sense would eliminate fires from such causes as these. However, a few precautionary measures are listed here to prevent the occurrence of fires:

1. Avoid lighted candles in the decoration of the trees.
2. Use carefully wired electric lights.
3. Place the tree a safe distance from the stove or fireplace.

250 Five-Man Teams Assured For Fox Valley Pin Tourney

LARENCE M. WIRTZ, Manitowish, secretary of the Fox Valley Bowling association, has announced that he has assurance of an entry of at least 250 teams in the fourth annual tournament of the association to be held at Sheboygan starting Jan. 14 and closing Feb. 19.

"I advise all bowlers to get their entry blanks in soon," said Mr. Wirtz. "The entry deadline is Jan. 8 and entries may be sent to me at Oshkosh. The tournament offers an opportunity for low average teams from any city in this district to compete in a special class under favorable arrangements. It should be especially attractive to Valley bowlers and other nearby districts for the reason that it is held primarily for what is called the amateur bowler and by its geographical restrictions eliminates the big city bowler who has the opportunity of spending the greater share of his time on the alleys. It is a tournament not monopolized by bowlers from any one city."

Tentative weekend dates are Jan. 14, 15, 21, 22, 28, 29; Feb. 4, 5, 11, 12, 18, 19. Out of town teams will be given preference as to Saturday and Sunday dates.

Discussion of White House Family Natural, Pegler Says

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Mrs. Roosevelt sounds again the recurrent plea that members of the president's family be allowed to live their own lives and the patient insistence that they are damned if they do and damned if they don't. According to the Washington copy, Mrs. Roosevelt says the American people sooner or later will have to decide whether they want in the White House the sort of family whose children will make no effort to earn their own living and in which the wife will renounce all previous interests and obligations and become totally dependent upon the husband for the period of the presidency.

To borrow a gag from the ideology talkers, Mrs. Roosevelt oversimplifies the case.

Nobody has criticized any of the Roosevelt children merely for endeavoring to make a living, and Mrs. Roosevelt herself has been treated with courtesy in the pursuit of her previous obligations and of her new ones. However, it is not likely that another such family will come to the White House, and the people probably will not have such an issue as she states, even though it be conceded momentarily that she states it correctly.

The first little grief that assailed the White House family after the first inauguration had to do with some rather spirited motor driving by some of the boys, who in a very short time accumulated a bridge hand of cards from traffic officers. Naturally, being sons of the president, their difficulties with the law received extraordinary prominence, which had to be accepted as one of the penalties of place.

Later, at the very hour when Mr. Roosevelt was making a speech in which he referred bitterly to persons who ride in carriages and drink expensive wines, a young man bearing a remarkable likeness to one of his own sons, while riding in a carriage on the French Riviera, poured champagne into the ceremonial plug hat of the local mayor as that official bowed in greeting. It was later explained that there had been a mistake in identity, but people naturally marveled at the coincidence which placed two young Americans so much alike in the same European city at the same psychological moment.

Americans Would Have Enjoyed the Mischief

However, even if the first, erroneous identification had stood, the American people, and many of the French, too, would have enjoyed the spontaneous, inspired mischief of the act and would have held nothing against the youth or his father. The boy was just a kid, off on his own for a good time, and it seemed too bad that it couldn't have been he, for the act was in keeping with the spirit of those French carnivals where the guys squeeze the girls and everyone gets a snootful. Perhaps the president's speech would have been slightly discredited, but there would have been no appreciable damage to his prestige or the family name.

It was Jimmy who courted the sharpest criticism, and in his case it was no mere question of making a living, but that question plus the question of how. As Mrs. Roosevelt herself says, there is an ethical obligation not to profit from the association, and Jimmy admitted that in one case he asked that "special good care" be taken of a visitor to the president-elect "because it is important to me in a business way."

Press Has Been Kind to President's Wife

After that Jimmy was taken in to the White House in an influential, confidential post—a move

Armstrong Injury Revealed as Hoax

Hammering Henry Wasn't in Shape So Falls Were 'Arranged'

Los Angeles—(AP)—Buzz-saw Henry Armstrong, boxing's double champion, let newsmen of his home town in today on the "inside story" of the postponement of his fight with Ceterino Garcia, whom he finally conquered last month.

The three-week delay had been ascribed to a sacro-iliac injury Armstrong received in training. But here's his version:

"I wasn't really hurt—at least not bad. I had trouble getting in shape. I knew I wasn't 'right' when I wound up training. My manager knew it, too. So did the newspaper men."

We had to get the bout postponed for the public's sake as much as my own. The fans have been nice to me, and I try to repay them as best I can by always putting everything I've got into a fight.

"So I went and took a couple of good heavy falls in front of several witnesses."

Gomez Proclaims He'll Win 20 Games for Yanks in 1939

BY DREW MIDDLETON

NEW YORK—(AP)—Now that the "Listen, the Wind" session of the baseball magnates is over, the ballplayers are moving in. Lefty Gomez, discovered window shopping in the roaring forties, proclaimed he'd win 20 games for the Yanks in 1939.

The Gomez expects the stork in June. "Hope it's a boy so I can teach him to hit," said Lefty without batting an eye. "Hank Greenberg is aiming at the highest salary in baseball this year. I'll hit 58 homers last year and think I'll do better next season," said Hank. "The Babe pulled down 80 grand for doing that, why shouldn't I?"

Burgess Whitehead, the Giants' second baseman who spent most of the 1938 season batting the flies off cows and running bases with a milk pail, is drinking two quarts of milk a day and chasing deer to get in shape for the coming pennant chase.

He expects to be doing business at the old stand, which will be a relief to Colonel Will Terry, who had everyone but Grover Whalen in there last season.

Donald Budge is practicing for his opening match with Ely Vines by day and shaking a slick hoof on the night club dance floors in the cool of the evening.

The Clerksburg (W. Va.) pro basketball team has Len Barnum, New York Giants back, and Joe Stydahar, the great Chicago Bears' tackle. In the lineup—which grosses 1,069 pounds.

T. C. U. Passes No Worry for Kern

Jefferson county, Alabama, has supplied the last two Auburn football captains. Milton Howell, a guard from Bessemer, succeeds Bo Russell, a rough, tough and nasty tackle, as the head man of the Plainsmen.

Joey Archibald, the featherweight champion in seven states, three counties, the eighth ward of Peoria, Ill., and Memel, has been offered a fight with Mickey Miller, the Mexican society boy who plays jai alai for Mike Jacobs, announced after a workout today he was going up to the snooty racquet club for a bit of play. "Keep away from dem guys or you'll have Tom Dewey on your neck," shouted Mushky Johnson.

Ken Overlin, the Chicago middleweight, lost to Eric Seelig here Monday night.

No wonder as he fought in Akron, O., Saturday night, beating Jack Moran.

Gophers, Illini In Cage Victories

Michigan, Purdue, Ohio State, Wildcats Scheduled Tonight

Chicago—(AP)—Four Big Ten basketball teams, three of them undefeated, will resume their non-conference warfare tonight against inter-sectional foes.

Michigan and Purdue each will be striving for their fifth triumph in a row, the Wolverines against Cornell at White Plains, N. Y., and the Boilemakers against Southern California at LaFayette, Ind.

Ohio State, which defeated George Washington in its only start, will take on the University of Washington tonight in the first of their two games on the coast. Northwestern, vanquished in its last three games, will oppose Notre Dame, which has tried twice against Big Ten opposition and failed.

Minnesota and Illinois kept their undefeated records intact last night. John Kundla and Paul Maki paced the offensive as Minnesota romped over Nebraska 66 to 37 for its fifth in a row. Sparkling floor work of Captain Tommy Nisbet feature Illinois' 49 to 23 triumph over Connecticut State. It was the season's debut for Nisbet, who passed a special examination yesterday to become a scholastically eligible. The victory was the Illini's third straight.

In the only other game involving a conference team, Chicago again fell before Marquette, this time 40 to 32. The Maroons lost to Marquette, at Milwaukee recently.

Tomorrow night Ohio State will meet Washington in the second of their series while Indiana seeks its fifth straight at the expense of a strong Butler five.

America OUT-OF-DOORS

BUFFETS FOR BIRDS
By Ozark Ripley

WHEN we develop a desire to care for our game birds during the cold winter months as great as our desire for killing them during the open season, we shall have gone a long way toward solving the problem of maintaining a good supply for all time. Almost every winter records tragedies among our feathered creatures which stay north of the Mason and Dixon line, tragedies which could be avoided or lessened if man would only help in giving protection and food instead of ignoring the situation.

The very people who are loudest in their appeals to the game departments of their states to provide more game birds invariably are those who refuse to get out when the ground is covered with snow and the mercury remains below zero for days to assist in the work of feeding chickens, pheasants and quail. If there were no slackers among the hunting fraternity, much more game could be carried over to the next nesting season.

Too Much Expected

We are a funny race of people. We like to see the other fellow do things which are badly needed, but we hate to do them ourselves if it causes us the least physical discomfort. Because we pay a small license fee to a state for hunting privileges, we think the game department can do almost any kind of Herculean task. It is indeed a Herculean task to feed game birds when the game departments are so small everywhere. Many sportsmen, but a lot more could join in the good work to advantage and help safeguard the game birds by their attention.

The great mistake we all make in our efforts at feeding game birds is to wait until the birds are in absolute need of shelter and food. We pay little attention to the first snows or moderately cold spells. We could help to keep the birds in condition by aiding them at these times so that they would have a reserve when the killing blizzards arrive and work their havoc.

Birds seek shelter and food on the snow. Some of them become covered by drifts and never are rescued. What the future must bring is organized feeding of the birds long before the wintry blasts come. Here and there food should be scattered in sheltered places or in the special feeding places now constructed for birds. The birds will readily learn to repair to the shelters and food sources instead of hunting around half-starved for food in places where it cannot be found.

Practical Feeding

One can be convinced of the efficacy of feeding stations provided by groups of sportsmen in advance of the cold blizzards by contrasting the birds in districts so served and those in districts where no aid has been given. All too many will be found frozen in their roosting places in the latter locations.

Food must be put out in sheltered places where neither sleet nor snow will conceal it. Food help must be given now because modern agriculture has destroyed many of the weeds which helped support bird life in the past. Modern sportsmen must unite to provide that which nature can no longer supply.

Shiocton City Cagers Wallop Seymour Five

Shiocton—Shiocton city basketball team defeated Seymour, 36 to 14, in a game here Tuesday night. The teams scored two points each in the opening quarter but Shiocton was in front, 10 to 5, at the half. In the third period Shiocton grabbed a 19 to 10 lead and then won easily in the final quarter.

Withuhn, center, scored seven field goals, four winners with Winterfield getting five. Ruch paced the Seymour aggregation with three field goals and two free throws.

Milwaukee—Coach Paddy Driscoll of the Marquette university football team, selecting the 1938 all-Catholic all-America eleven for an eastern syndicate, has named: Earl Brown, Notre Dame, and John Wysocki, Villanova, ends; Joe Beiner, Notre Dame, and Al Wolf, Santa Clara, tackles; Jim Turner, Holy Cross, and Ray Apolski, Marquette, guards; John Schiechl, Santa Clara, center; Dom Principe, Fordham, quarterback; Joe Mellendick, Georgetown, and Mike Klotovich, St. Marys (Cal.), halfbacks, and Bill Osmanski, Holy Cross, fullback.

Galehouse Confident He'll Win for Red Sox

Sarasota, Fla.—(AP)—Dennis Galehouse is confident he will win plenty of ball games for the Boston Red Sox next season if the club gives him regular work.

The former Cleveland pitcher, traded recently in a deal for Ben Chapman, believes the lack of a regular assignment was the main reason for his failure to live up to expectations with the Indians.

"Cleveland always had an over-supply of pitchers," Galehouse said. "And I didn't get as much regular work as I felt I should to reach top form."

Galehouse predicted the Red Sox would give the New York Yankees a real fight for the American league pennant next year.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates fashioned an easy 49 to 32 victory over the Sheboygan (Wis.) Redskins in a National Professional Basketball league here last night. The Pirates took the lead early in the game and built up a 22-13 margin at the half. Paul Sokody paced the Wisconsin cagers with 10 points.

Milwaukee—A "Hey! Junior!" shout from Coach Bill Chandler of the Marquette university basketball squad would hastily assemble a full and formidable varsity array. Marquette cagers who carry the first names of their fathers include Co-Capt. Erwin Graf and David Quabius, Ralph Amnden, Glenn Adams, George Sutter.

Swamp Concordia Five

Stevens Point—(AP)—The Central State Teachers college basketball squad scored its fifth victory of the season last night by swamping Concordia of Milwaukee, 61 to 28. Henry Minz, Wausau forward for the victors, was high scorer with six baskets and four free throws for 16 points. Hage and Lassanske, forwards, made 10 points apiece for the visitors.

Ruppert Will Permit Broadcasting of Games

New York—(AP)—Colonel Jacob Ruppert, millionaire owner of the New York Yankees baseball club, announced from his sick-bed today that he would permit the champions' home games to be broadcast hereafter "for the benefit of the other shut-ins."

The colonel, seriously ill for some eight months, has become a confirmed radio fan. Previously an implacable foe of baseball broadcasting, he has on numerous occasions asserted he never would admit a microphone to Yankee Stadium.

By the Associated Press
Boston—Buddy Knox, 1881, Dayton, O., outpouted Al McCoy, 182, Boston, (10).

Chicago—Bobby McIntyre, 132, Detroit, and Willie Joyce, 133, Gary, Ind., drew (10).

Marquette Again Wins Over Chicago Cagers

Chicago—(AP)—Marquette University's basketball team, victorious over the Chicago Maroons earlier in the season, came through again last night to hand the Maroons their second setback, 40 to 32.

Paced by Bob Deane, Glenn Adams and Erwin Graf, Marquette grabbed a 6 to 1 advantage, led 17 to 12 at the half and increased its margin to 24 to 12 before the Maroons began a futile rally which whittled the score at one time to 28 to 22.

The box score:

Shiocton City Cagers Wallop Seymour Five

Shiocton—Shiocton city basketball team defeated Seymour, 36 to 14, in a game here Tuesday night. The teams scored two points each in the opening quarter but Shiocton was in front, 10 to 5, at the half. In the third period Shiocton grabbed a 19 to 10 lead and then won easily in the final quarter.

Withuhn, center, scored seven field goals, four winners with Winterfield getting five. Ruch paced the Seymour aggregation with three field goals and two free throws.

Milwaukee—Coach Paddy Driscoll of the Marquette university football team, selecting the 1938 all-Catholic all-America eleven for an eastern syndicate, has named: Earl Brown, Notre Dame, and John Wysocki, Villanova, ends; Joe Beiner, Notre Dame, and Al Wolf, Santa Clara, tackles; Jim Turner, Holy Cross, and Ray Apolski, Marquette, guards; John Schiechl, Santa Clara, center; Dom Principe, Fordham, quarterback; Joe Mellendick, Georgetown, and Mike Klotovich, St. Marys (Cal.), halfbacks, and Bill Osmanski, Holy Cross, fullback.

Galehouse Confident He'll Win for Red Sox

Sarasota, Fla.—(AP)—Dennis Galehouse is confident he will win plenty of ball games for the Boston Red Sox next season if the club gives him regular work.

The former Cleveland pitcher, traded recently in a deal for Ben Chapman, believes the lack of a regular assignment was the main reason for his failure to live up to expectations with the Indians.

"Cleveland always had an over-supply of pitchers," Galehouse said. "And I didn't get as much regular work as I felt I should to reach top form."

Galehouse predicted the Red Sox would give the New York Yankees a real fight for the American league pennant next year.

The WORLD of STAMPS

By the AP Feature Service

The very fascination of Rome's ancient catacombs is strongly suggested by the new set of six stamps from Vatican City commemorating the International Congress of Christian Archeology.

Ann Sheridan—one of Hollywood's loveliest actresses—on being treated to an early visit from jolly Saint Nick—gives one of his reindeer a nibble of something suitable to the happy season. The fact that it's only a make-believe snow scene—and that roses are blooming in the California sun just outside—doesn't make Ann's greeting a bit less sincere. "Merry Christmas," she says "and a Happy New Year to you—and I do mean you." Ann will be seen next in "Dodge City."

Hollywood — Settin' Around (Republic): To walk down the main street of this lot, is to take a trip down Memory Lane, for, at every step, I meet the stars of yesterday. The so-called "major" studios are ruthlessly discarding their ruling that they were passe and no longer wanted by theatre-goers. Republic snapped them up, featured them in inexpensive pictures—and reaped a bumper crop of box-office dollars. Almost without exception, the cast-offs of the majors have proved gold-mines for the canny gentlemen in charge here.

Take, for instance, the case of Ramon Novarro, who today showed me a mountainous stack of mail from fans who are welcoming him back to the screen. M-G-M discarded him because three or four of his pictures flopped. Every critic in Hollywood flayed those pictures, not because Ramon mishandled his assignments, but because the stories were trite and ineffectual. Since they cost fabulous sums to produce, it was small wonder that they made little or no profit. Ramon was merely the scapegoat for the alibi artists who were really responsible for those failures. His successful comeback in Republic's cheap but entertaining films proves that his fans had never turned against him.

The same facts apply to almost all of the old-time favorites on this lot. They were merely victims of Hollywood's vicious alibi system. And it warms my heart to see them fighting their way back to the top in Republic pictures, which, each year, play more and more theatres. I almost envy them — for they are enjoying the last laugh.

CHATTER ABOUT REPUBLIC IDOLS: Rochelle Hudson's expressionless beauty reminds me of every pretty girl advertisement I've ever seen. Look alike: Henry Wilcox and Randy Scott. Sybil Jason is one childlike and unspoiled. Gene Autrey's prescience artistry with a lipstick convinces me that studios are wise in hiring visitors who have illusions. Round Smiley Burnett's bashful "Yes Ma'am" is always accompanied by a blush. Wonder if the beautiful devotion between Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Gleason is an argument in favor of professional marriages — or merely an exception to prove the rule. Despite lost stardom and financial reverses, Jack Mulhall is

St. Nicholas

The old Dutch custom is to have a gift-giving day in early December. Dec. 6 is St. Nicholas day in Holland, and it honors the saint who in most countries of Europe is supposed to do his good work at Christmas time.

In Holland, and to some extent in Belgium, the custom is for St. Nicholas Eve (the evening of Dec. 5) to be the time for general joy to start. Mothers pass around cookies, gingerbread and other dainties they have prepared, and toys are given away as well.

Father Christmas Visits a Hospital in England.

Men dressed as St. Nicholas go about and ask whether the children have been "good or bad." Small boys and girls leave out their shoes after filling them with hay or carrots as food for the donkey or horse St. Nicholas is supposed to ride. In the morning, if they have been "good," they find tops or sweets in their shoes. Otherwise a child may find a switch in his shoe.

St. Nicholas is also a visitor in Germany, Switzerland and several other countries of Europe. In some places he visits homes in company with a man dressed up as a monster with a black face, horns and long red tongue.

The "monster" has different names, including Grampus, Klau-bauf and Bartel. He may frighten the children, who fear he will punish them for being "bad."

Great Britain does not have any evil being going around with St. Nicholas, or anyone else, at Christmas time. Boys and girls are told of "Father Christmas," also often called "Santa Claus."

There was an old English idea that the sweeping the chimney at Christmas time would bring good fortune. This is supposed to explain the legend of Santa Claus coming down the chimney.

Certainly a stout Santa would "sweep" the chimney on his way down, but how soiled his clothing would get!

Speaking of Santa coming down the chimney makes me think of a cartoon I saw several years ago. Two children were shown hanging up their stockings on a radiator! Many homes do not have open fireplaces, so the idea of Santa Claus coming down the chimney has been going out of fashion.

SEE DETAILS BELOW

Name .....

Address .....

HOW TO WIN

1. Read the ads in this Christmas "Gift Selector" carefully. In the two open spaces (top part) of the illustrated cartoon figures above—write, type or print what you think the little figure and Santa are saying to each other (not over fifteen words in each space). A new cartoon picture will appear daily in the space above until Christmas.
2. The conversation must contain the name of an advertiser whose ad appears here, and something about any gift that he advertises. Only ads in this "Gift Selector" and the names of the advertisers are considered.
3. Yes, it is necessary to clip out the cartoon illustration to fill in the words you wish to write in the two open spaces (balloons). Do not color or decorate. The clearness and originality in the way you word the conversation is what counts.
4. The first two daily prizes are in the form of $1 gift orders on advertisers herein, and theatre tickets to the other five winners.
5. Yes, you can submit as many entries daily as you wish but each must be written in the space of a separate cartoon picture. Send same to Judges of Christmas "Gift Selector" c/o Post-Crescent.

Varsity, Alumni Teams to Clash In Annual Battle

Assistant Coach Directs Regulars in Scrimmage Session

New London—The annual alumni homecoming basketball game will be held at the Washington High school gym at 8 o'clock Friday night and will provide an occasion for a get-together by college students and the out-of-town employed who are flocking home this week for the Christmas holidays.

The 1938 alumni team ran through a practice scrimmage at the high school last night and probably will show Jim Mesnick at center, Bernie and Don Stern at forwards, Francis Meinhardt and Lee Smith at guards. All are lettermen of last year and were outstanding performers. Alumni reserves will be Evan Stern, Phil Clark, Kenneth Magalska and Harold Gottger.

The Red and White regulars worked out today without benefit of Coach D. N. Stacy who left yesterday to spend the Christmas holiday at home. Assistant Coach Gregory Charlesworth scrimmaged the boys this morning and will direct tomorrow night's game.

Third in Conference
The high school varsity is making its way in the Northeastern Wisconsin conference with three wins and only two losses against the two leading and toughest teams in the conference, Shawano and Neenah. Third only to those, the Stacymen have played one game more than any of the other contenders.

A preliminary will be staged at 7 o'clock tomorrow night by two teams made up of B squad players.

Borden Employees Guests at Party

250 Persons Entertained
By Music, Dancing
And Plays

New London—About 250 persons, sons, all Borden employees and their families, were entertained at a Christmas program of music, dancing and plays by local talent at the Borden Milk Products plant last night.

High school students furnishing music were Valda Gehrke and Angeline Runge in a French horn duet; Alice Stanley vocal solos; Tim Kellogg, Lyle Quant and Donald Huber, trombone trio.

A feature of the program was a playlet "The Bridge Party" by members of the Rebekah lodge impersonating well known members of the audience. In the play were Mrs. L. C. Lowell, Mrs. Lee Talady, Miss Vivian Lindner, Mrs. C. L. Farrell, Mrs. James Graham, Mrs. S. E. Therns, Mrs. Ernest Wells, Mrs. May Anderson and Mrs. Charles Palmer.

Dancing numbers were presented by three little trios, Barbara Wells, Carol Emmott and Jane Platte doing a tap; Colleen Haas, Nancy Korh and Suzanne Zaig in a novelty; and Gloria Ann Krueger, Barbara Knapstein and Carol Popke dancing "Turkey in the Straw".

Solo dances were performed by Alice Emans and Arlyce Kluchski. A tumbling act was staged by Albertine Boudoin, Barbara Wells, Barbara Meinhardt, Helen Frank, Thorvald Frank, Betty Lou Knap and Shirley Ross. High school girls presented their play, "The Comb-ing Jacket" with Helena Wangelin, Angeline Runge, Marjorie Larson, Elaine Saindon, Amy Suring and Rosaline Klatt.

A special stage was erected in the plant and the interior was elaborately decorated. Santa Claus appeared and gave sacks of candy to all the children and every adult was presented with a gift of dairy products.

USING GAS
Cairo—(T)—Tear gas bombs will be used in future for subduing mobs and demonstrators, because of complaints that truncheons and clubs cause too many injuries. The city police has created a special tear gas section, and men are being trained under the supervision of their Commandant Sir Thomas Russel Pasha.

Kaukauna Water Project Will be Launched Tuesday

Dam, Powerhouse to Increase Capacity of City Utility

Kaukauna—Work on the improvement of Kaukauna's water power rights on the Fox river, consisting of a dam and powerhouse at the old Pattern Paper company site, will be begun next Tuesday. Alderman Edward Steidl, chairman of the board of public works, told the common council last night. Steidl said that Harvey Ganzer, WPA area engineer, so informed the board Monday night.

On Dec. 27 all WPA workers will go back on projects, after a layoff since Dec. 16. On that day the first crew will be sent to Pattern's with more following as other Kaukauna projects are finished. Steidl stated.

A WPA grant of $141,000 for labor on the project was received some time ago by Kaukauna. A WPA request for $90,000 aid on the powerhouse and equipment is pending, but as all such grants must have work started by Jan. 1 it is not thought likely that this allotment will be made. The utility commission has provided that $90,000, to meet the WPA grant, will be in Kaukauna banks in the event such a grant is made.

Plans Approved

Kaukauna has received the approval of the state public service commission and a license from national authorities to begin the new project. The total value of the project when finished has been estimated at about $475,000. Electrical energy will be generated for public utility purposes. The certificate of authority issued by the state points out that by 1944 there will be a sufficient annual increase in power demands of the Kaukauna utility to absorb the entire output of the new generating system.

The city brought the property of the Pattern Paper company more than a year ago to a foreclosure sale for $4,850 and payment of $60,671 in outstanding taxes. The purchase included real estate, a hydroplant, buildings, machinery and the right to use 32 per cent of the flow of the Fox river as it enters the pond held by the government dam.

United Efforts For World Peace Is Plea of Pastor

Constructive Program to Prevent War Is Needed, Rotarians Told

Kaukauna — A plea for every one to work together for the common good of mankind in maintaining world peace was made by the Rev. G. S. Green when he spoke before members of the Rotary club Wednesday noon at Hotel Kaukauna. The Rev. Mr. Green recently came here from Minot, N. Dak. to take over the pastorate of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Peace will reign over the world, the speaker declared, only when all nations follow a course of righteousness and cooperation. It is not enough just to not want war, he said. Citizens must work out a constructive program to keep peace and prevent war.

Hatreds at Root

Racial hatreds and animosities have been at the root of most of our wars and disturbances throughout the world, the Rev. Mr. Green continued, and in order to dissolve these troubles individual good will must be built up.

The story and spirit of Christmas illustrate that if a man's own life is right a great many other things will be right. If each man strives to have good will toward his fellow men, the world would receive a direct benefit in its movement toward peace among all nations. It is easy, the Rev. Mr. Green concluded, to have peace between men of good will.

The address was followed by a meeting of the board of directors of the Rotary club.
